3 MINERS DROWN WHEN BIG CLOUDBURST FLOODS PENNSYLVANIA COAL PIT

7 More Caught Like Rats in Trap But Manage to Swim and Walk 4,000 Feet to Mouth of Mines

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 24.—Caught like rats in a trap when water rushed o the manway of Superba No. 2 mines at Evans station, three miles north Uniontown this afternoon, following a cloudburst, 13 men were drowned and escaped after a most harrowing experience. The men were drowned about 00 feet from the mouth of the mines, their only avenue of escape.

The majority of the victims had large families and about 30 children are prived of their bread winners.

The men who escaped were forced to half swim and half walk to the pit uth through water ranging in depth from their waists to their necks. The jority of the miners who escaped were knocked down by timbers that were t down the mine with great velocity in the raging current. Several men re being carried back in the mine to certain death when rescued by their mpanions.

was stated tonight by officials of Superba company that it will take least 60 days to clear the mine of ter and until that time bodies must nain in the mine. Superintendent ttemore was the first man to see high water start in the manway, raised the alarm and all the men the outside rushed into the mine ling loudly as they went. In that nner more than half the miners re saved.

Families Try to Save Loved Ones.

he wives and families of the miners drivers in the mines, when the m was raised, rushed to a large e made by the rushing water at the nhole and threw bushes, poles and atever timber they could find into water to stop its onrush. Failing this they rushed to the mouth of mine, but were stopped by the men guarded the entrance.

everal large pumps will be placed in the mine tomorrow and everything possible will be done to get the bodies. The water rose so quickly following the cloudburst that it practically destroyed all railroads and street railways in Fayette county.

Nothing could be done to avert the catastrophe. A dam, that had been built around the manway a day or two ago when the water was high, was washed away and the waters rushed into the mine so rapidly that the pit was filled in less than 30 minutes.

It was reported tonight that three men had lost their lives in Lemont No. 2 mine of the H. C. Frick Coke company, about a half mile from Superba mines. About 190 men were caught in the flood there, but all escaped except three, who are unaccounted for.

One of the survivors, Andy Mac Hak, when he realized that water was rushing in with such rapidity as to flood the entire mine, cut a wagon that was attached to the cars of coal, and by hanging on the chains, was drawn to safety by two mules.

Another man, John Rapko, who was given a lamp by William Smith, one of the drivers, in order that both could have their way lighted, immediately disappeared with the lamp, forcing Smith to fight his way out in darkness.

It is reported that several other men have perished in the mine, but officials declare that the complete list is only 13. Thirteen checks were left on the check board, and the officials estimate the loss in this manner, although there are persistent rumors that the death list may reach 16.

ALABAMA PROGRESSIVES SELECT 24 DELEGATES

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 24.—Twenty-four delegates, each with half a vote, were elected to the Chicago Progressive convention at the state convention of Progressives here today.

The convention was constituted by 150 white men, who ignored the 15 negroes who entered the hall. Tonight the negro Progressives met and selected a full contesting delegation to the Chicago convention.

The "lilywhite" convention indorsed Colonel Roosevelt and woman's suffrage, but disapproved of a suggestion that Judge Lindsey of Denver be indorsed for the vice presidency.

SIGHT MOTORBOAT OUT ON THE ATLANTIC

PHILADELPHIA, July 24.—A small motorboat containing four persons, and headed for Europe, was sighted far out on the Atlantic, July 20, by the captain and passengers of the steamer Pretoria, which arrived here today from Hamburg. As no signals were displayed, the Pretoria proceeded without asking the boat's destination.

The little craft, shipping men say, may be the motorboat Detroit, bound from New York to Queenstown.

Sensational Ending of Darrow Trial Is Said to Be Imminent

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 24.—A strial under sensational circumnces is said to be imminent in the e of Clarence S. Darrow on trial for eged jury bribing. Attorneys for the fense are said to have charged in a nference with Judge Hutton today at the illness of Juror L. A. Leavitt s feigned and asked for an immete investigation by the court.

Judge George H. Hutton and District torney Fredericks said late today at they expected the trial to be remed tomorrow morning with Juror avitt in the box.

Notwithstanding this attitude on the rt of the court and prosecutor, Chief unsel Earl Rogers of the defense, id that he issued subpoenas for a mber of Leavitt's neighbors, sumned to prove that Leavitt was disalified from serving as a juror bease of opinions as to Darrow's guilt was said to have expressed before e beginning of the trial. Accomnying this showing will be a request at Leavitt be excused from further rvice on the ground of ill health and M. Blakesley, the alternate juror, bstituted for him.

Although much secrecy was mainned concerning the conference Judge Hutton admitted this afternoon that a serious situation had arisen. He refused to discuss the matter. The judge expressed the belief, however, that some way would be found to proceed with the trial.

When the illness of Juror Leavitt was reported Monday, the defense's attorneys asked that the alternate juror, A. M. Blakesley, be installed a regular juror. It was learned today that when the request by the defense was made, Judge Hutton was placed in possession of certain alleged facts which caused him to send a physician of his own choosing to examine Leavitt.

No Symptoms of Complaint.

According to the defense's attorneys, this physician found no symptoms of appendicitis, the ailment with which the juror was said to be suffering.

Further information was said to have been given Judge Hutton today to the effect that Juror Leavitt's opinions regarding the guilt or innocence of Darrow had been so freely discussed at his home, prior to his taking a place on the jury that they became a matter of common report among his neighbors.

For this reason, the defense attorneys are said to have asserted that Leavitt feigned illness for the purpose of being excused from the jury.

TARIFF FIGHT OPENS TODAY

REPUBLICAN SENATORS NOT PREPARED

Week's Program Causes Division in Both Parties Over Embarrassing Points

WASHINGTON, July 24.—With only a partial plan of action agreed upon among the Republican leaders of the senate, a three-day tariff fight will begin in that body tomorrow when the Democratic wool tariff bill is taken up for amendment and passage.

Before the end of Saturday's session the senate will have acted upon the wool tariff, the sugar tariff and the Democratic excise bill, which would extend the present corporation tax to business done by individuals and copartnerships.

Both the Republican and the Democratic forces were divided tonight over the embarrassing questions that the tariff program presents. The break in the Republican ranks came as the result of the introduction today by Senator Cummins of a substitute woolen tariff bill based on the figures given by the tariff board.

Cummins Surprises Regulars.

The action of Senator Cummins was not in accordance with the understanding regular Republicans had of the plan to be followed. Leading Republican members of the finance committee held an informal conference tonight to determine whether a third bill representing their views should be introduced tomorrow. No agreement was reached as to the possible introduction of a bill that has been prepared by Senator Smoot.

The Democratic leaders called a caucus to meet Friday. The purpose of the caucus, it is understood, is to adjust conflicting views on the sugar tariff and attempt to meet the views of Democrats who object to the free sugar bill passed by the house.

Several Democrats expressed the opinion that to indorse the house bill would affect the political situation in western states where beet sugar interests are important.

Senator Borah today introduced as a substitute for the excise tax bill a complete income tax law. It is the same measure he offered when the Payne-Aldrich tariff was under discussion and was defeated. Senator Clapp offered an amendment to the excise bill to strike out of the present corporation tax law the provision exempting corporations from paying tax on incomes derived from other corporations that already had been taxed.

Gronna to Introduce Substitutes.

A Canadian reciprocity and wood pulp tariff amendment will be offered by Senator Gronna of North Dakota. It provides for the repeal of the Canadian reciprocity law and for a reduction of one-half of the Payne-Aldrich rates on wool pulp and print paper. Senator Gronna declared today that he would offer his amendment as a substitute to each of the tariff bills.

No apparent progress was made today in the effort to secure an agreement among Republicans on a bill to reduce the sugar tariff.

The sentiment favoring a reduction of the present duty of $1.90 per hundred pounds, and the abolition of the Dutch standard test will result in a compromise Republican measure, it is believed, if the regular and insurgent leaders can get together.

UTAH SOCIALISTS NOMINATE

SALT LAKE, July 24.—A complete state ticket was named by the Socialists in convention here today. Homer P. Burt of Salt Lake was nominated for governor and H. A. Saunders of Provo was nominated for secretary of state.

Complains to Federal Authorities Against Gambling on Steamers

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—A crusade against gambling on Pacific liners was instituted today when United States District Attorney John L. McNab of the northern district of California received a letter from John N. Mills of Evanston, Ill., complaining that fan tan flourished on the steamer Korea during the vessel's last trip to this city from the orient. Mills, who is living in a local hotel, writes that he and others who were aboard the Korea have laid the matter before the officials of the Pacific Mail Steamship company.

Mills is authority for the statement that Chinese members of te crew conducted the games and that first-class passengers crowded about the tables and gambled. According to the letter, many of the passengers held a meeting and filed their protest with the officials of the vessel. The gaming continued, however, in sight of officers and passengers alike.

McNab says he will take the necessary action if he finds that federal statutes have been violated.

FRANK T. SEARIGHT ILL

Searight, humorist and journalist and formerly president of the American Press Humorists association, is critically ill at the Clara Barton hospital and his physicians stated today there was little hope for his recovery. Mr. Searight suffered severe injuries in an automobile accident several months ago, since which time he has been practically helpless.

BODY OF MAN KILLED BY LIGHTNING LIES TWO WEEKS BEFORE FOUND

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, July 24.—The badly decomposed body of Thomas Carter of Aspen, Colo., was found this morning on the south slope of Beacon hill, between the Hiawatha and Prince Albert mines, by Edward Cookerly, a prospector familiarly known as the "mayor of Beacon hill." The body was first identified by a Knights of Pythias watch charm and visiting cards, and later a brother, L. C. Carter, a miner on the El Paso, and a prominent Mason, completed the identification.

Carter came here some time ago to visit his brother, L. C. Carter of this city. He started out to look for work July 10, and was not seen again. That he was struck by lightning is shown by the discolored rocks in the vicinity and some partially melted silver money in the pockets of his clothing.

Carter was 42 years old, and a past chancellor of Roaring Forks lodge No. 40, Knights of Pythias of Aspen. His wife and two children live in that place.

This is the first death by lightning this year. Last year three persons met death in this manner, one of the victims being struck down within a short distance of the spot where Carter's body was found.

Stands Near Track as Train Goes by; Foot Is Grazed; in St. Francis

E. M. Thorpe of Fountain is at St. Francis hospital with a badly crushed foot as a result of an accident Tuesday afternoon. He was standing near the Colorado and Southern tracks when a train went past suddenly, just grazing the foot. Thorpe was brought to St. Francis hospital yesterday. The foot is badly crushed but it is thought that amputation will not be necessary.

ELABORATE PLANS FOR METHODIST DAY, AUG. 6

Plans were made yesterday for "Methodist Day," to be held at Stratton park August 6, when the Methodists of Colorado and many from adjoining states will meet. C. C. Morris, M. B. Clotworthy and J. C. Campbell were named a committee on grounds and transportation, and will arrange details of the affair.

Three out of the four district superintendents in Colorado will attend as follows: F. R. Hollenback, Colorado Springs district; A. L. Chase, Denver and northwestern district; D. D. Forsythe, Denver district. All maintain their residence in Denver.

Dr. H. F. Hall of Denver, who has given many sermons in the First Methodist church here, will deliver a sermon in the morning, and Dr. C. B. Wilcox, also of Denver, for many years pastor of the First Methodist church of this city will talk, as will other well known leaders in the church work. Bishop McConnell, whose jurisdiction extends over Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and Arizona, will speak in the afternoon.

A basket picnic will be held at noon. J. C. Schneider of Colorado Springs will have charge of the chorus choir, in which it is expected to enroll between 200 and 300 voices. All the churches will be asked to furnish singers, and the music will be one of the big features of the day.

It was left to heads of the local church organizations to secure the attendance in a body of all Sunday school pupils and teachers.

CLASH IN HOUSE OVER POLITICS

MONDELL AND NORRIS SHOW BITTERNESS

Chair Near Ordering Mace Down to Compel Washington Member to Subside

WASHINGTON, July 24—Republican political wounds were laid bare, and much bitterness was displayed, in the house today, when Representative Mondell of Wyoming, the member of the credentials committee of the recent Chicago convention which seated Taft contesting delegates, and Representative Norris of Nebraska, an ardent Roosevelt Republican, clashed in two set speeches. Mondell defended the action of the convention, while Mr. Norris denounced it with bitter emphasis.

Once during Mr. Mondell's speech order was restored only when the chair was on the point of ordering the mace down to compel Representative Warburton of Washington, Republican, to take his seat. Again that emblem of authority was near being used to quell turbulence, when Representative Humphrey of Washington, Republican, declined to cease his interruption of Mr. Norris' speech.

Mr. Norris followed Mr. Mondell with the statement that "a man whose name was known throughout the country" had acknowledged that the Taft managers had stolen the delegates from the state of Washington. This man, he said, was engaged in supporting the president, because, Mr. Norris added, he entertained "political aspirations."

Called for His Authority.

"When the gentleman makes such a statement," interjected Representative Humphrey, "he certainly should give his authority."

Mr. Norris declined to divulge the identity of his informant. He plunged at once into his reply to Mr. Mondell, and criticised the latter's denunciation of "soap box primaries." He referred to the primaries in Indiana, which went for Taft, and which Mr. Mondell indorsed as regular.

"The gentleman loves the primary that goes for Taft," said Mr. Norris, ironically, "but how he hates and despises the primary that goes for Roosevelt."

He defended the Washington primaries, and said that no charge of dishonesty of any kind had been registered until the Taft men discovered that, if allowed to go unchallenged, the Roosevelt managers would be within three votes of controlling the state convention. He declared that secret meetings were held and Taft delegates named.

Favored Democrats He Says.

"The action of the committee in Chicago," said Mr. Norris, addressing the Democratic side of the house, "was all in favor of Democratic success. They did more to bring about the possibility of Democratic victory than the Democratic party ever did, or ever was competent to do. The Taft Republicans and the machine Democrats are together. 'Two souls with but a single thought; two hearts that beat as one.'

"When your convention met in Baltimore your temporary chairman, in his 'keynote speech,' devoted all of his time to an attack on Roosevelt, and paid no attention to Taft. There is another evidence of the 'fusion and unison.'"

Mr. Norris drew Democratic applause when he said it was conceded "confidentially at least by all Republicans," that President Taft could not be reelected. He added that the "president running on a trumped-up nomination" could only result in votes for the Democratic candidate.

"Everybody knows that the fight is between Roosevelt and Wilson," he declared.

Were Classmates Just 34 Years Ago; Elevator Man and Supreme Judge

C. W. McCoy, elevator operator at The Gazette building, and Rosseau A. Burch, associate justice of the Kansas state supreme court, who delivered the address of the day yesterday before the Commercial Law League of America, graduated in the same class from the Salina (Kan.) High school just 34 years ago.

"'Ross' Burch always was inclined to judicial matters, even when a boy," said McCoy yesterday, "and I always thought that he would make a lawyer, and a good one."

John F. Boyer, a veteran member of the law league, who has not missed a meeting for many years, is quite a character in his way. It is estimated that he has tried upwards of 6,000 speed violators during his incumbency as police magistrate at Evanston, Ill. He is strongly against these violations, and rarely does a culprit escape without a fine, if the evidence warrants. Judge Boyer is at the present convention here.

DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE MEETS TODAY

NEW YORK, July 24.—A full meeting of the Democratic national campaign committee will be held here tomorrow to put an official stamp of approval upon a number of matters in connection with the opening of the campaign already tentatively determined by Chairman McCombs and a number of his fellow committeemen. The name of William G. McAdoo, builder of the tunnels under the Hudson, was mentioned unofficially today as having already been partially decided upon for the vice chairmanship.

STEWART TALKS TO BIG CROWD

ENTHUSIASTICALLY RECEIVED IN LA JUNTA

Says "No Man Wearing Corporation Collar Should Be Elected in Colorado"

Special to The Gazette.

LA JUNTA, Colo., July 24.—A rousing welcome was given Philip B. Stewart and the other Republican progressives who spoke here tonight in their whirlwind tour of the Arkansas valley. A large crowd turned out and the speakers were enthusiastically received.

"No man wearing a corporation collar should be elected to office in Colorado," said Stewart. "Personally such men may be fine fellows as a rule, they are—but their sympathies, from association and environment, are not with the people. They know nothing of the trials and labors of the masses. They are heedless of the call for needed legislation, because they realize that the enactment of legislation by the people would lessen the profit of their masters and employers, the corporations.

"Cast your ballots for the man who represents a clean cause in state and county affairs, as well as in national. As intelligent citizens, we can no longer say the Democratic party or the Republican party can do no wrong. The old idea that the king can do no wrong, is fading with other superstitions into the mists of the past.

"For your county offices you should select men who represent the best citizenship of your county. The men who have led good, clean, upright lives among their neighbors, and in their homes. When you have done this, you have started right. The same rule will apply in the selection of state and national officials, and you can find men of this character who are not tied to the corporations, and possess no taint of that character.

"We must encourage the corporation when it is right and discourage it when it is wrong. Heretofore a few bad corporations have controlled the Republican party organization in Colorado, and are attempting to control it today. These corporations have their headquarters in Denver, and you are asked to take orders from the offices of these organizations—not orders for your good or your aggrandizement, but for the benefit of these corporations. I have never taken these orders, am not taking them now, and never will. I cannot work in a collar of that kind."

Four Killed When Youths, Scuffling, Explode Dynamite

ANTONITO, July 24.—Four persons were killed, and two others seriously injured as a result of an explosion of dynamite in a building used as sleeping quarters on the Gallegos ranch, in the Ortiz valley, near here, yesterday. The dead:

PRECILIANO ARCHULETA.
JUAN MARTINEZ.
RAYMUNDO GALLEGOS.
ORACIO GALLEGOS.

Oracio Gallegos was blown through the roof, landing 75 feet from the building, which was completely wrecked by the explosion. Edmundo Martinez and his wife, who occupied an adjoining room to that in which the explosion occurred, were seriously injured when the wall was blown in upon them. Mrs. Martinez was pinioned against a stove and suffered severe burns. Martinez was injured by falling timbers.

The dynamite was to be used for blasting purposes, and was stored in the bunkhouse. The four youths who were killed were scuffling when they upset the explosive.

Witnesses in Rosenthal Case Fear Gangsters; Won't Testify

NEW YORK, July 24.—Fear of revenge at the hands of East Side gangsters, ever present in the minds of witnesses in the Rosenthal murder investigation today, temporarily blocked the efforts of District Attorney Whitman to draw closer the lines about the man who assassinated the gambler eight days ago.

Apparently awed by the presence of gangsters in the coroner's court, John Reisler, a barber known to the sporting fraternity as "John the Barber," retracted at the coroner's examination a statement he is alleged to have made a few minutes earlier to Mr. Whitman, that he had seen "Bridgie" Webber, now under arrest, running from the scene of the murder. After Reisler had denied his earlier statement he was arrested on a charge of perjury.

It was to connect Webber more closely with the case that "John the Barber" was placed on the stand. It is believed Mr. Whitman is laying his lines to force from Webber a statement which will implicate those "higher up" in the case.

It is at the door of this "system" that the district attorney [illegible] the responsibility for the murder of the man who had charged that the police were exacting tribute from gamblers.

The proceedings this afternoon were sensational. Reisler was the first witness called against Webber, having just come from a conference in the district attorney's office. He declared he had seen Webber in Broadway near the scene of the murder after Rosenthal was slain.

Reisler's Testimony.

"Was he running?" asked Mr. Whitman.

The witness shifted uneasily in his chair and let his eyes drift toward where Webber, Paul and others were sitting.

"I don't know," he replied.

"Didn't you tell me 30 minutes ago that he was, in your own words, 'running like ——'?"

"I was excited and don't remember," [illegible]

"Didn't you tell me in my office in the presence of Mr. Moss that you were afraid to tell of the case? [illegible] the gang [illegible] against [illegible] were afraid you would be killed?" asked Mr. Whitman. [illegible]

"CONSTITUTION IS SUPREME" BURCH

Kansas Supreme Justice Explains Why Statutes Are Declared Invalid

STRONGLY AGAINST RECALL

Talks Before Commercial Law League; Report Bankruptcy Committee Is Rejected

The Commercial Law League of America will elect new officers tonight at the closing session of its three days' convention. Three names are mentioned prominently for the presidency: W. B. Paddock, Fort Worth, Tex.; Frederick P. Voss of Chicago, and Edwin A. Krauthoff of Kansas City,

J. HOWARD REBER of Philadelphia, President Commercial Law League of America.

Mo. The retiring president is J. Howard Reber of Philadelphia.

The feature of yesterday's session was the annual address by Judge Rosseau A. Burch, associate justice of the supreme court of Kansas, who read a long and interesting paper on "Constitutions and the Courts." His address was easily the most important feature of the convention, and had been looked forward to by all the members.

Justice Burch dealt forcefully and clearly with the points he had chosen to emphasize. He dwelt on the proceedings and debates of the convention which framed the constitution of the commonwealth of Australia in 1895, with the American and British constitutions as a basis, rejecting the attempt to embody in the articles the clause providing for the recall of judges and judicial decisions. He illustrated the difference between giving the people power to recall court decisions and giving them the right to provide for an enlargement of the constitution to cover all cases which are likely to develop as the world progresses. An abstract of his address is given below.

Committee Turned Down.

The report of the committee to correct abuses of the bankruptcy practice was rejected late yesterday afternoon after a hard fight, which lasted a good share of the afternoon. The canons of the American Bar association were substituted and adopted by almost unanimous vote. The report, which had been prepared by the committee headed by Chairman Julius Henry Cohen of New York, met with instant opposition from many delegates, and an attempt was made to vote the committee out of existence and prevent the report from being introduced, but

SENATE SHOWS BURST OF SPEED

MAKES RECORD OF PROGRESS ON BILLS

Clearing Its Docket in Effort to End Quickly the Congressional Session

WASHINGTON, July 24.—With the end of the congressional session dependent upon the speed with which the senate clears its docket that body made a record of progress today. Among the bills and resolutions passed were:

The sundry civil appropriation bill carrying $116,000,000 and providing for the continuance of the tariff board.

The military academy appropriation bill establishing a legislature and partial home rule in the territory.

A resolution directing the secretary of war to investigate claims of Americans to redress for injuries from Mexican outbreaks along the international border in 1911.

A revised Alaskan mining claim measure.

A bill making a federal standard for apples shipped in barrels.

A bill authorizing $750,000 for a memorial amphitheater at Arlington National cemetery near Washington.

A bill to regulate sponge fishing in the Gulf of Mexico and Florida waters.

Democrats Renew Fight

The Democrats renewed their fight on the tariff board when the sundry civil bill went through the preliminary procedure of passing from the committee of the whole into the senate, but the appropriation of $225,000 for the board was again indorsed. The provision will be the subject of a renewed fight in conference.

The Alaskan civil government bill which has already passed the house, will require perfecting in conference before it goes to the president. As passed in the senate it provides a legislature of one house consisting of 16 members.

The Alaskan assembly would meet once in two years with its regular sessions restricted to 60 days and special sessions to 15 days, legislators drawing $15 a day for attendance.

PITTSBURG SECTION FLOODED

The lowlands were quickly inundated and hundreds of persons were compelled to flee. Residences and business places were almost completely submerged in some districts while the Manor valley and Turtle creek railroads together with trolley service, were put out of commission.

More than 2,000 persons were marooned on the hills of Oakford park where the annual outing of the employes of the Union Supply company from West Moreland and Fayette counties was held today.

Tonight after wading knee deep in water, the picknickers succeeded in reaching a railroad and were taken to their homes.

A devastating flood rushing down the mountain side spread ruin throughout Dunbar. A cloudburst transformed small streams into torrents. A number of buildings were completely wrecked and hundreds of others damaged. The town is almost entirely under water tonight.

Up to late tonight no fatalities had been reported.

A score of families were caught in their homes in the lower section of the town [illegible] people it was necessary for the rescuers to swim to the houses.

COUNTY WORK ON ROADS

The county force has finished repairing the road leading from the railroad this side of Breed to the Modern Woodmen sanatorium making it 24 feet wide and graveling the spots where adobe formerly formed the roadbed. The Canon City road also has been graveled and the ditches under county jurisdiction have been cleaned out and in many cases drain pipes have been put in.

Monday the county forces will start work on the road which leads from Glen Eyrie to the Modern Woodmen home and the grader also will be used on the Mesa road. The date of the postponed Good Roads day at Ramah has not been set and probably will be held back until the present rainy season is over. Whenever a rain occurs in that district some sections of the road are practically impassable because of the adobe and work on them for some time afterward would be hopeless.

"CONSTITUTION SUPREME"

this fell through and the report was heard by the delegates.

Mr. Cohen, who has been a member of the league but one year, completed the report some time ago and presented it at the annual convention of the National Credit Reporting association held a few weeks ago. That body indorsed it. The action of the chairman in having the report presented there prior to the convention for which it was intended, caused many of the members to object. This fact and the alleged radical tenor of some of the measures the report contained caused the wave of opposition.

I. M. SIMONTON
of Tampa, Fla., Member Executive Committee Commercial Law League.

The new canons adopted not only cover the ethics of the bankruptcy law but extend their scope over all commercial law.

The remainder of yesterday's program was of the routine order with reports, papers and short addresses.

Annual Banquet.

Last night the annual banquet was held in the dining room of the Antlers and 225 covers were laid. The tables were decorated with profusions of flowers and the menu was unusually elaborate.

The toastmaster was Frederick P. Vose of Chicago. The first speaker was former Governor Charles S. Thomas who spoke on "Law Books." An intermission followed and little Miss Virginia Bryant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Bryant of Detroit, Mich., entertained the guests with some fancy dancing. Earle W. Evans of Wichita, Kan., the next speaker on the program, was too ill to respond, and W. C. Sprague of Detroit, organizer and first president of the league, spoke briefly in his place. His talk was on reminiscences of the league. Wade Millis of Detroit spoke on "Eclipse of the Law," closing the program of the evening.

Justice Burch's Address.

In his address on "Constitutions and Courts" Mr. Justice Burch said that a few years ago many able publicists believed that the period of development in the field of constitutional law had closed, and that the country had before it little more than the cultivation of the field of administration. He said that he has not shared this belief.

"As Professor Bergson points out, evolution does not describe the trajectory of a cannon ball," said the speaker. "It more nearly exhibits the conduct of a shell, which after proceeding for some distance bursts into fragments, each of which is itself a shell which in turn explodes and so on. The history of the people of the United States illustrates the law."

Judge Burch then quoted the social compact by which the 41 adult males on board the Mayflower, November 11, 1620, organized themselves into a body politic. This notable document was the constitution of the pilgrims' colony, and for some time their governmental organization consisted of a meeting of the men, an elected head man called a governor and a few assistants, he said.

"From this and other simple societary cells scattered along the Atlantic coast has developed the United States of America," said Justice Burch, "with its 90,000,000 of people and its elaborate, intricate and many times multiplied social and governmental institutions."

He then showed how the growth of the country required changes.

Corrects Popular Impression.

"The interpretation of the Sherman act by the supreme court of the United States," said Justice Burch, "has furnished the occasion for the dissemination of enough misinformation to confuse public opinion in this country concerning the functions of the courts in the matter of judicial interpretation."

The speaker dealt with this subject in a comparative manner, and took up the popular impression that the conduct of American courts, in reading words into and out of statutes and other laws, is not tolerated under other judicial systems. He quoted from the British authorities that "where the language of a statute in its ordinary meaning and grammatical construction, leads to a manifest contradiction of the apparent purpose of the enactment, or to some inconvenience or absurdity, hardship or injustice, presumably not intended, a construction may be put upon it which modifies the meaning of the words, and even the structure of the sentence." He then cited that the United States and the state constitutions are laws, and that if acts of the federal or state assemblies conflict with the constitutional laws, one or the other must give way, and the constitution, in each case being supreme, the statute must give way.

He said that Germany gives the judiciary the power to declare statutes unconstitutional, when they conflict with a state constitution an imperial statute or the imperial constitution, and to treat an imperial law the same way when it conflicts with the imperial constitution.

Constitution Supreme

"The crux of the matter," said the speaker, "is laid down in the American constitution in few and stately words, as follows: 'This constitution is the supreme law of the land.'

"It is over judge, president, parliament and citizen," said Judge Burch, "and it is that constitution which it is the office of the court to carry out."

The speaker laid great stress on the judicial progress of the commonwealth of Australia. The country in 1895 called a convention to frame a federal constitution.

In this regard Judge Burch said:

"In due time such a convention assembled and its proceedings are noteworthy for the high character of statesmanship displayed by its members. The most intimate knowledge was exhibited of the merits, demerits and actual working of the British parliamentary system of government and of the governments of Canada and the United States. In the end the American precedent became the principal guide with its separate spheres of federal and state authority and its division of power between legislative, executive and judicial establishments. The motto, however of the Australian delegates seems to have been to 'trust in the people.' Senators are elected by direct vote. In the event of a deadlock between the senate and the house of representatives over legislation, strongly advocated by one party, a referendum to the people may be taken, and in numerous other respects the prevailing desire seemed to be that of enlarging the power of self-government. The most careful attention was given to the article relating to the judiciary."

Modeled After the U. S.

He reviewed the progress of the constitution, and the royal assent from England, July 9, 1900 and continued:

"Through the royal proclamation the constitution became effective on January 1, 1901. We have presented to us therefore the remarkable spectacle of the queen, lords and commons of Great Britain in the year of Grace, 1901, putting into effect for the government of the people of a continent a written constitution modeled upon that of the United States of America."

The speaker concluded with the following:

"In order to prevent any possibility of misapprehension I desire to impress upon the convention that my purpose in presenting this paper is in no sense controversial. I merely hope to take out of the air as President Lowell would say and bring back to earth the discussion of a subject most deeply interesting alike to lawyer and layman and especially to call attention to the very recent and much neglected action of the people of the commonwealth of Australia."

The program for today follows:

Morning.

Report of committee on president's report.

Report on special committees.

Report of auditing committee.

Report of memorial committee.

Conclusion of unfinished business.

Evening.

Annual election of officers.

Selecting place for next convention.

Titled Woman to Open a Manicuring Shop

Her friends are startled at the announcement which comes from Lady Sybil herself.

At her apartments, 22 East Thirty-first street, she said there is room among the wealthy people for a manicurist and a select trade can be built up.

"At any rate," she said, "I am going to attempt to build up such a trade, and I think I will succeed. The stage? Yes, I'll try that if my present plans fail, but I would much rather open my little manicuring shop."

Lady Grey Wilson is tall and good-looking. Her father is soon to retire from the Bahama post, it is said, and return to the quiet life of the country in England. The daughter is averse to living in some English country town.

FIND SHEEP HERDER DEAD

TRINIDAD, July 24.—John Perry, a sheep herder, was found dead near Folsom, N. M., this afternoon. It is presumed that he was struck by lightning while attending his flocks. His home is at Chillicothe, Tex.

KILLS WOMAN WHOM HE OWED AND THEN COMMITTS SUICIDE

PUEBLO, June 24.—Prompted by what is thought to have been business jealousy, Stephen Edl, proprietor of the Club cafe, Alamosa, this morning at 9 o'clock entered the Blanca cafe, owned by Mrs. Thomas Gerber and without warning shot the proprietor through the head. Only a few words were spoken before the shooting, Edl angrily addressing Mrs. Gerber in the Bohemian language as she waited upon a customer in the dining room. The bullet passed through the victim's head and out a front window of the restaurant, barely missing a man and woman who were passing.

Edl, after seeing his victim fall to the floor, ran back into the kitchen and when about in the middle of the room placed the muzzle of the revolver at his right temple and sent a ball crashing through his brain.

Mrs. Gerber lived nearly half an hour after being shot, while Edl lived a couple of hours, but neither regained consciousness.

There are many conflicting reports leading up to the tragedy, but the most probable motive is that Edl owed Gerber $90 in borrowed money and she early this morning had the officers attach and close the Club cafe for the debt. Of late they have both been bitter rivals in their business.

DRIVES FOR SIX DAYS WITH EYE HANGING FROM SOCKET

GREELEY, July 24.—With his right eye hanging from the socket as the result of a blast in a mine near North Park, Colo., John Watt, who, with a companion from Greeley, was inspecting the mine at the time of the accident, drove six days overland before reaching medical attention.

The youths went from North Park to Laramie, Wyo., but could find no physician who would risk an operation. From Laramie they drove to Greeley, where the attention of an eye specialist was secured. It is believed that Watt will lose the sight of both eyes. The blast shattered the globe in a lantern which Watt was carrying on his head and fragments of the glass tore the eye from the socket, while other pieces were imbedded in his face.

GIRL WOULD RATHER BAKE BISCUITS THAN STUDY LAW

CHICAGO, July 24.—"I'd rather bake biscuits than study those mussy old law books," declared Eva Thompson, a member of the graduating class in the University of Chicago law school. Thereupon she threw away the law books and eloped with Russell Stapp, also a graduate of the law school. They went to Crown Point and were married. Later they returned to the Thompson home and were duly forgiven.

Mrs. Stapp's mother is a doctor. She had ambitions for her daughter to shine in the legal profession. The young woman displayed a fondness for the kitchen, and made friends with the cook.

"My husband is going to open an office," says the bride of a day. "I may be able to help him in his profession but I'd sooner have a nice dinner for him when he gets home than to have a desk in his office."

Mrs. Stapp's mother is perfectly satisfied.

"I have a smart son-in-law," she said. "He fooled me easily and carried away my daughter. Next thing to Eva being a lawyer is to have married one, so I guess I can voice no objections."

CHRISTMAS ISLAND SOLD FOR ITS VALUABLE COPRA

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—Advices from Honolulu report the sale of Christmas island, reputed original of Robert Louis Stevenson's Treasure Island and center of a web of hundreds of less pleasing tales current in the South seas of piracy, blackbirding, treasure seeking and wrecking. The island is valuable as a copra producer. Father Rougier, whose shingle reads: "Real estate, islands bought and sold," negotiated the transfer from the ownership of the Grieg family to an unnamed buyer.

Rougier with William Grieg and a party, returned to Honolulu July 15, after a trip occupying nearly sixty days in a power schooner which lost half of its top hamper and wireless aerials in a heavy blow the first night out from Honolulu. The rest of the trip was without incident.

Christmas island is just north of the equator three degrees west and 18 degrees south of Honolulu.

IOWA PROGRESSIVES CHOOSE DELEGATES

DES MOINES, Ia., July 24.—The state convention of the Progressive party late this afternoon adopted a platform containing a plank declaring for the direct election of postmasters by their constituencies.

The convention chose a full set of delegates to the national convention at Chicago, headed by Judge John L. Stevens of Boone, organized a working state committee and provided for congressional district and county organization.

COIN TELLS STORY OF DEATH OF MISSING MAN

CRIPPLE CREEK, July 24.—A blackened coin in the pocket of a dead man, identified today as the body of Thomas Carter, a mine leaser, who has been missing several weeks, told the story of his death by lightning. The body was found at the bottom of a dump on the southern slope of Beacon hill. Whether death was due to an accident or murder had been committed might never have been known but for the burnt coin.

WITNESSES IN ROSENTHAL

"No," replied the witness in a frightened manner.

Mr. Whitman then placed Assistant District Attorney Moss on the stand. Mr. Moss said that just before the hearing Reisler had told him and Mr. Whitman that he came from the subway at Times Square about 2 o'clock and in front of the Cadillac saw Webber "running like ———." He then heard of the murder. Mr. Moss said Reisler did not want to talk about the case for fear of being injured.

Reisler was again placed on the stand and declared that Mr. Moss' story was not true. When pressed with questions as to whether he had seen Webber at all, he hesitated, made several starts and then said he thought he had seen him. The witness declared he was not afraid of being killed himself but did not want to connect his family with the affair, as "the men in the case are bad."

"Didn't you say that any man who testified against Webber would be killed?" persisted the district attorney.

The witness denied this and the questioning was brought to a close.

Arrested on Charge Perjury.

As Reisler was about to leave the court room he was arrested on a charge of perjury. Late today Reisler requested that the district attorney call on him at the prison as he wanted to "talk," but Mr. Whitman will not see him until tomorrow.

The district attorney has issued subpoenas for all the attendants at the Lafayette baths where it has been stated Harry Vallon, "Bridgie" Webber, Sam Paul and "Bald Jack" Rose appeared shortly after the assassination and remained for the night.

Mr. Whitman said he had not received an answer to his letters requesting that the three detective lieutenants Becker, Riley and Costigan appear as voluntary witnesses before the grand jury.

"If Lieutenant Becker comes," said Mr. Whitman, "I will ask him if he had a conversation over the telephone with Jack Rose the night of the shooting and I may say that the telephone company will furnish us with the call from Webber's or the baths on the night in question without our issuing a subpoena."

FATHER DEAD; SON GONE

Oliver Thompson, who was rushed to St. Francis hospital last Tuesday night from Husted, where he was taken seriously ill on his way from Denver to Colorado Springs, died shortly afterward in St. Francis hospital. His 15-year-old son, Charles, who left his parents and younger sister at Husted, taking the team and wagon in an effort to earn money for the family, had not been located last night, but is thought to be in the city. No funeral arrangements have been made. The family traveled in the team from Denver to Husted, when the father became too weak to sit up.

WRITER ON INTERNATIONAL LAW BIDS U. S. STAND FIRM

Hannis Taylor, Former Minister to Spain, Says This Country Is Sovereign in Canal Zone

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Hannis Taylor, former minister to Spain and a writer on international law, published an open letter here today contending that the Hay-Pauncefote treaty is voidable because of the situation arising out of Panama's ceding the canal zone to the United States. There is no room for hair-splitting on that point, writes Mr. Taylor. "Within the canal zone the United States is sovereign for all the purposes of international law. Under that law it is well settled that a treaty becomes voidable, not void, whenever a change has taken place in the fundamental conditions existing at the time it was made."

The writer quotes Hall, the English authority on international law, in support of that contention.

Mr. Taylor refers to Russia's repudiation in 1870 of certain portions of the treaty of Paris, relating to the Black sea and contends it set a precedent upon which the United States may act.

In conclusion the writer contends in part:

"We must take the firm stand under the well-defined principles of international law as punctuated by the Russian precedent that after there has been an essential change in the conditions existing at the time the treaty was made it becomes voidable. In that way we can justly lift the question out of the domain of international arbitration where we could never obtain a fair hearing, into the domain of diplomatic negotiation with Great Britain where we will be sure to receive fair and friendly consideration."

GOES TO HOME ESTRANGED WIFE TO KILL AN ENEMY

KANSAS CITY, July 24.—Mrs. Mamie Gary and Frank Faulkner, a boarder at her home, were sitting on her front porch with her 12-year-old son today when Simon Gary, husband of Mrs. Gary, from whom she had been separated, approached them.

"Hello, everybody," said Gary, as he kissed his wife and shook hands with Faulkner. "Wife, get me a drink of water, and son, hurry in the house and get ready to go to a picture show."

After the woman and boy left the porch, five shots rang out in quick succession, two of which wounded Faulkner; two went wild, and the last entered Gary's heart, killing him instantly.

Letters found in Gary's pocket, charging Faulkner with destroying his home, indicated Gary intended to kill Faulkner and commit suicide. Faulkner was sent to a hospital, where it was said he would recover. Gary was 35 years old, his wife is 33, and Faulkner is 30.

STEAMER SINKS YACHT

NEW YORK, July 24.—The steamer Old Colony of the Metropolitan steamship line while turning the Battery on her way from Boston to this city this morning crashed into the yacht Idler which soon sank. The passengers and crew on board the Idler were taken off by tugs.

One of the passengers on the Idler, Mrs. Julia M. Skidmore of Brooklyn, was seriously injured. Others of the yacht's passengers suffered from shock and were attended by physicians. Mrs. Skidmore was thrown into the water by the collision and was picked up by one of Idler's lifeboats. There were 14 persons on board the yacht, four women and two children and a crew of eight. After the yacht was struck the Old Colony continued on her way to her dock.

SUIT IS DISMISSED

Judge R. E. Lewis of the United States district court at Denver has dismissed the $15,000 damage suit filed by Mrs. Joseph Seelman of Iowa City, Ia., against Dr. W. V. Mullin, Glockner sanatorium and the Hallett & Baker Undertaking company, all of this city. The court held that the allegations in the complaint were not supported by the facts, and in instructing the jury to find for the defendants, declared that they had acted with perfect propriety. The plaintiff claimed that the body of her son, William, who died at the Glockner, August 5, 1910, had been mutilated.

NO BATTLESHIP PLAN TO BE INSISTED ON

Democrats, in Caucus, Decide by Vote 70 to 62 Not to Change Position

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Democrats of the house in caucus tonight voted 70 to 62 not to recede from their "no battleships" program in the naval appropriation bill. A determined effort was made to have the caucus approve a compromise with the senate whereby the house would agree to the construction of one sea fighter. Representative Fitzgerald, chairman of the appropriations committee, led the opposition to the proposal on the ground of economy.

The action of the caucus further complicates the adjournment plans of the leaders of both the senate and house. The naval appropriation bill is in conference and today's caucus was ordered in an effort to break a deadlock that has prevailed for some time with no apparent chance that it could be broken.

The senate, committed to a two-battleship building program, was willing to compromise on one vessel this year. It has expressed its determination not to recede further.

"What will be the effect of today's action?" Chairman Padgett of the house naval affairs committee and leader of the house conferences was asked, when the caucus adjourned.

Will Sit Tight Says Leader.

"Heaven alone knows," he answered. "I'm just going to sit on the log and I don't know what the outcome will be. However, we'll probably be here until frost arrives."

The caucus was a noisy one. Through the guarded doors the voices of those for and against the battleship plan came plainly. Those in favor of a greater navy because of the approaching opening of the Panama canal wasted impassioned oratory and sought the support of the "country" members.

Those opposed insisted that the Democratic pledges of economy made it imperative that the naval program, as already approved by a previous house Democratic caucus, should be adhered to.

Representative Sulzer, chairman of the foreign affairs committee, offered a resolution that two battleships be provided and that objections to the senate amendment be withdrawn. Although Mr. Sulzer had a number of supporters, Chairman Padgett moved to amend this proposition by substituting one such vessel, which would be the "last word" in naval construction.

Debate Grows Acrimonious.

Majority Leader Underwood, Representatives Murray of Massachusetts and Pou of North Carolina, with several others supported Mr. Padgett's suggestion. Mr. Murray, who represents the district in which the Charlestown navy yard is located, confessed he was in favor of two big fighting craft but that in the present temper of the two houses of congress he believed a compromise was necessary to expedite public business.

The debate was growing acrimonious when Representative Burnett of Alabama moved that the entire matter be tabled. There immediately ensued a scene of confusion but the demand for a roll call on the proposal was carried, with the result that the caucus voted to stand by its previous decision. Several ineffectual attempts were made to have the caucus vote to release its members from the pledge exacted by the previous caucus not to vote for battleships this year.

SLAYER OF CAPITALIST IS PAROLED BY COURT

KANSAS CITY, July 24.—Robert F. Curtis, a cigar salesman, who shot and killed Henry C. Gumbel, a capitalist, in a hotel here last September, was paroled by criminal Judge Latshaw today after Curtis had served three months of a six months' jail sentence.

At his trial Curtis testified that he killed Gumbel because of the latter's attentions to Mrs. Curtis. He testified that he had shot another man in Texas several years ago for his attentions to Mrs. Curtis.

The illness of Curtis' mother who is without support caused Judge Latshaw to grant the parole. Judge Latshaw told Curtis he had no right to kill Gumbel.

"There were some extenuating circumstances in your case, but that was all," he said. "You might have been hanged for what you did. No one in a civilized nation has a right to take the law into his own hands. You killed Gumbel without a trial. The unwritten law is a menace to this country."

BRITISH STRENGTHENING NAVY MORE THAN GERMANY

LONDON, July 24.—In the debate on the naval estimates in the house of commons today, Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, replying to the criticism that he had made inadequate provision to meet the menace he had described, said:

"We are spending £45,000,000 ($225,000,000) this year, and we are going to spend more next year. We are raising the personnel of the navy to 141,150 by 1913 and to 146,000 in 1914. As regards construction, Germany this year is laying down two new battleships and we four. Next year Germany is laying down one extra and we two. This year Germany is laying down two small cruisers, we are laying down eight. Germany in the course of the next 15 months is laying down 21 destroyers; we 45. There is no cause for panic or alarm."

PICKPOCKET RETURNS BALLPLAYER'S WATCH

Sends It Back When Learns That Fob Was Gift to Grover Gilmore From President Taft

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—That even a pickpocket would not knowingly rob a baseball player, was shown today when a package containing a stolen watch was returned to the recent address of Grover Gilmore, who is on his way to Buffalo after being released by the San Francisco Coast league team.

Gilmore's departure was saddened last Sunday by the loss of his watch with a fob that had been given him by President Taft, one of his admirers. The theft was reported by the newspapers. Today a package, without identifying marks, was received, which was found to contain both watch and its much prized fob. The articles will be forwarded to Gilmore.

4,000 U. S. SOLDIERS IN MIMIC WARFARE

CAMP McCOY, SPARTA, Wis., July 24.—Equipped with "pup" tents, two days' rations and hundreds of thousands of blank cartridges, 4,000 United States troops, including 1,800 infantry and 2,200 cavalry, field artillery, outposts and hospital corps, all on a war basis, left camp here today to engage in what war department experts say will be one of the most extensive mimic campaigns ever held in the United States. With a battlefield stretching over two counties, the regulars expect to engage a hostile force of equal strength, composed mostly of state troops which was to advance from the Wisconsin military reservation at Camp Douglas, 25 miles away. It is not believed the opposing forces will meet before tomorrow when a general engagement will begin. Meantime each side is to advance on the theory that each is invading a strange and hostile country with no previous knowledge of the enemy's defense. The victories of the various sham battles and the final outcome of the campaign ten days hence and the number of "casualties" are to be determined on the theoretical points.

The Camp Douglas force under Col. Orlando Holloway of [illegible] consists of the Second and Third Wisconsin and the Third Illinois regiments, the third squadron of the Fifteenth U. S. cavalry from Fort Sheridan, one-half of the U. S. ambulance corps from Fort Leavenworth and Battery A of the First Wisconsin artillery.

It may be Saturday before the full strength of each side is brought under fire. Until then the soldiers are to solve theoretical problems.

Each soldier carried fifty rounds of equipment including 150 rounds of ammunition, half of a small tent, a blanket and two days' rations.

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., July 24.—About 200 soldiers technically were killed, many were wounded, scores of spies and prisoners were captured and bridges and railroads were blown up as the result of the war department's maneuvers begun today to stimulate actual war conditions for regular and state troops.

Between here and Camp McCoy, 34 miles to the west, the government has arranged a battlefield upon which in the next 10 days 10,000 troops will, with blank cartridges, cannon and other accoutrements, undertake an extensive campaign.

STOCK GROWERS, FAILING DO TO BUSINESS, ADJOURN

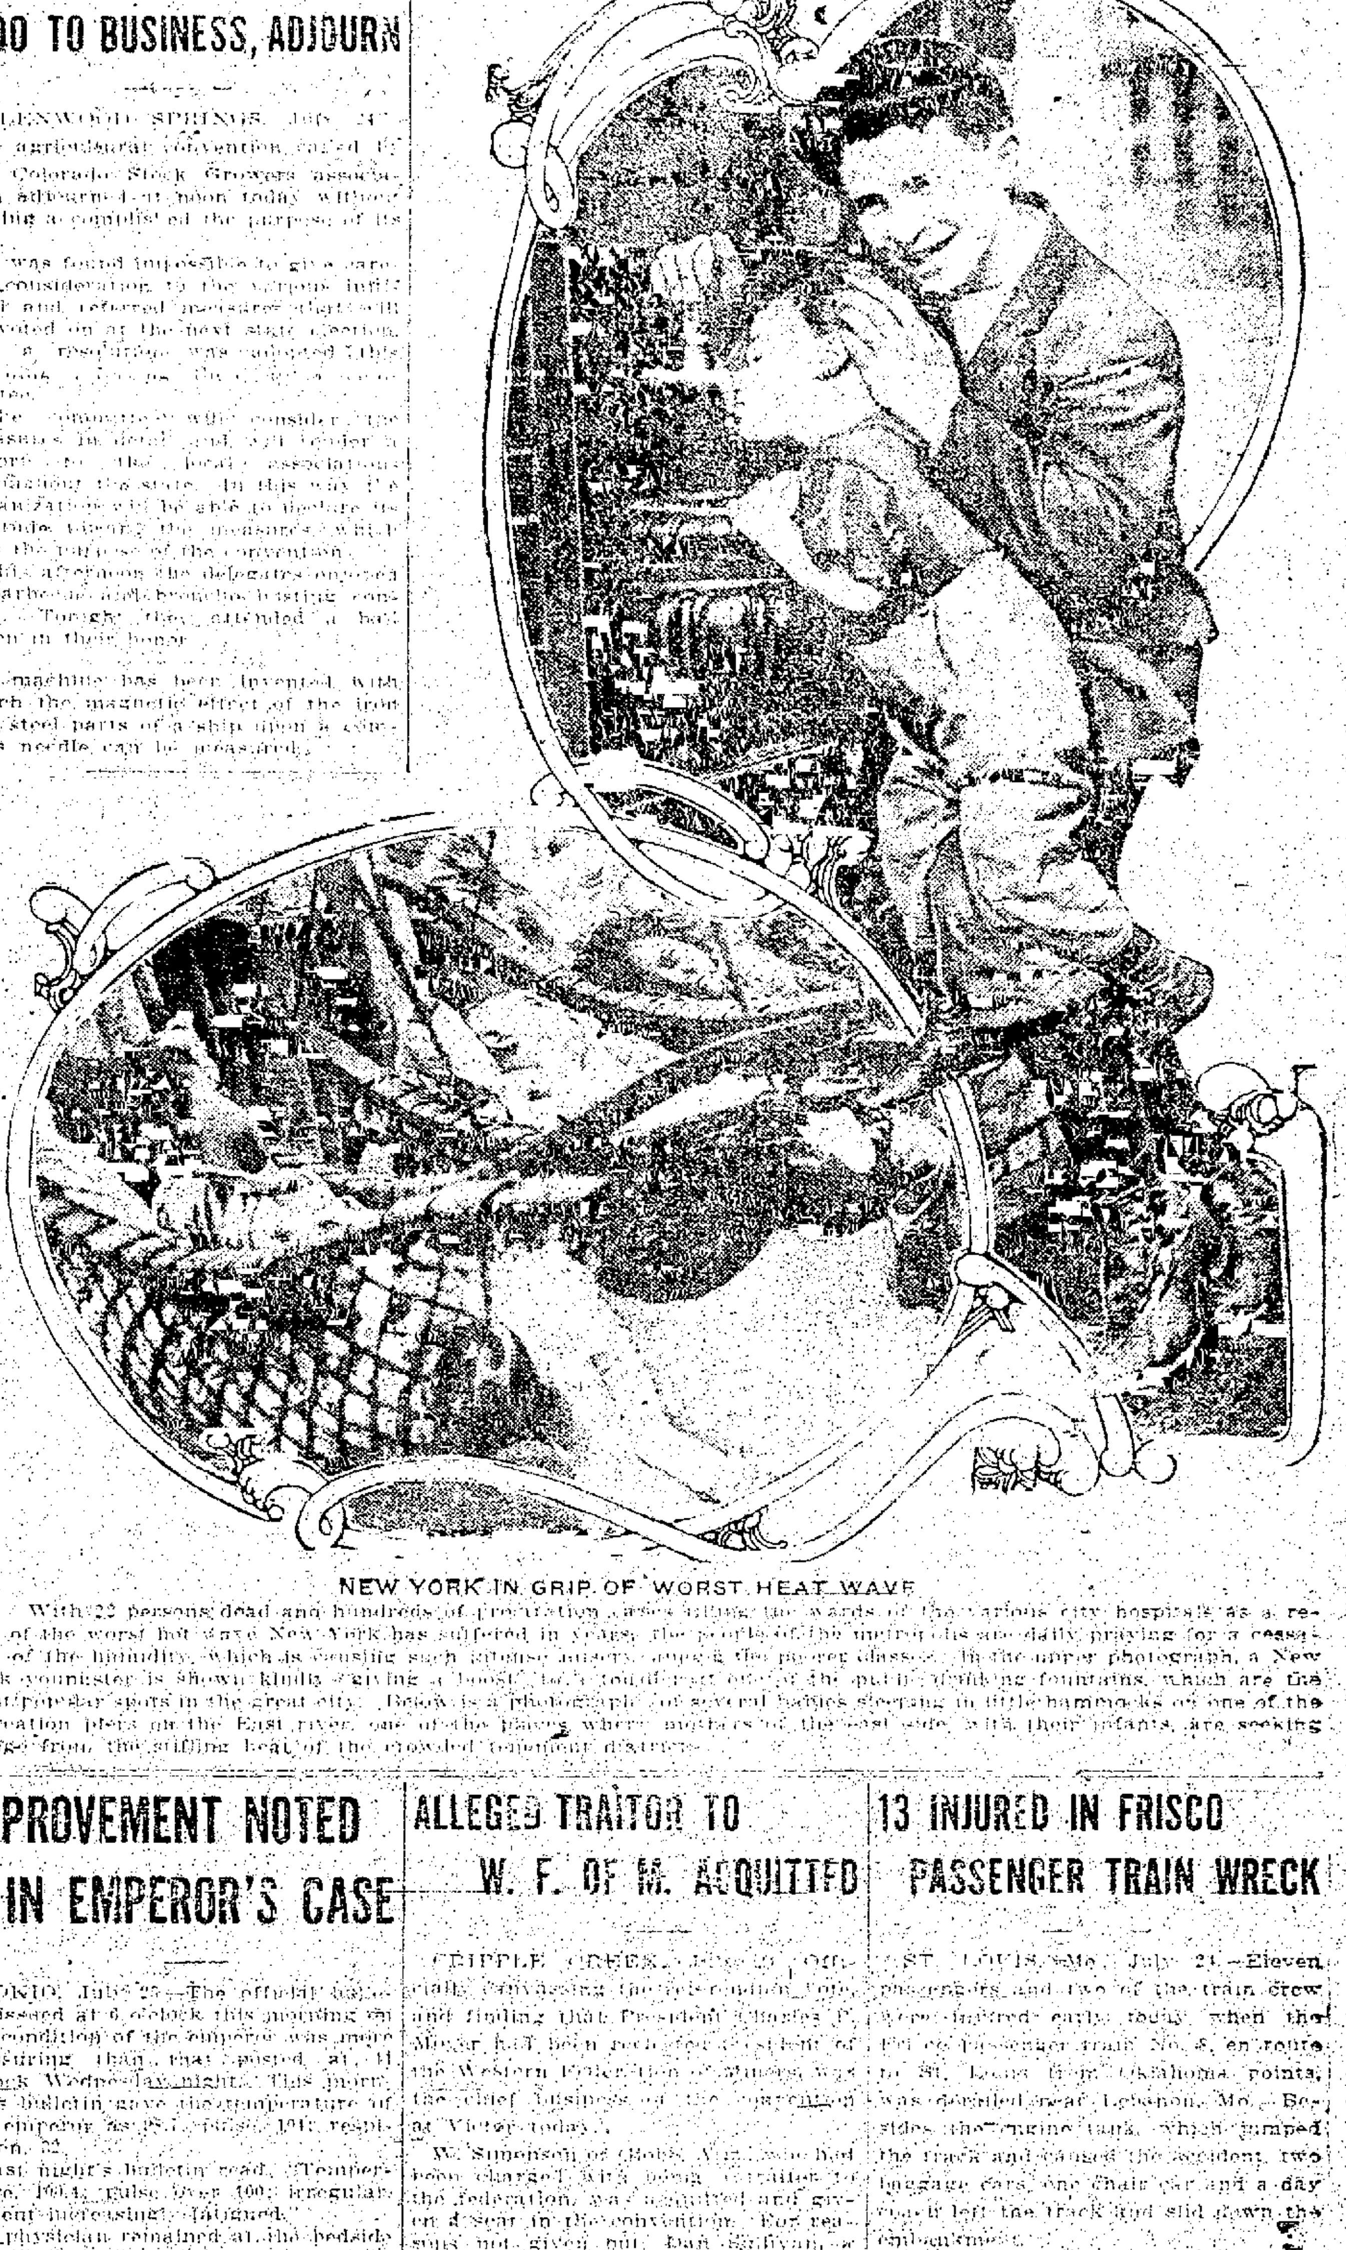

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, July 24.—The agricultural convention called by the Colorado Stock Growers association adjourned at noon today without having accomplished the purpose of its call.

It was found impossible to give careful consideration to the various initiated and referred measures that will be voted on at the next state election, and a resolution was adopted [illegible].

The committee will consider the measures in detail and will render a report to the local associations throughout the state. In this way the organization will be able to declare its attitude toward the measures which was the purpose of the convention.

This afternoon the delegates enjoyed a barbecue and broncho busting contest. Tonight they attended a ball given in their honor.

NEW YORK IN GRIP OF WORST HEAT WAVE

With 22 persons dead and hundreds of prostration cases filling the wards of the various city hospitals as a result of the worst hot wave New York has suffered in years, the people of the metropolis are daily praying for a cessation of the humidity, which is causing such intense misery among the poorer classes. In the upper photograph, a New York youngster is shown kindly giving a "boost" to a youthful [illegible] of the public drinking fountains, which are the most popular spots in the great city. Below is a photograph of several babies sleeping in little hammocks on one of the recreation piers on the East river, one of the places where mothers of the east side, with their infants, are seeking refuge from the stifling heat of the crowded tenement districts.

IMPROVEMENT NOTED IN EMPEROR'S CASE

TOKIO, July 25.—The official bulletin issued at 6 o'clock this morning on the condition of the emperor was more reassuring than that posted at 11 o'clock Wednesday night. This morning's bulletin gave the temperature of the emperor as 38.7, pulse 101, respiration 32.

Last night's bulletin read, "Temperature 100.4; pulse over 100; irregular. Patient increasingly fatigued."

A physician remained at the bedside throughout the night, as conditions were considered unfavorable. A minister of the household said this morning that the emperor had slept fairly well. The acceleration of the pulse is regarded as serious but not critical.

The 11 o'clock bulletin created alarm and the princes were summoned to the palace at 2 o'clock in the morning. The newspapers delayed issue until after 6 o'clock, when assurances were given of a pronounced improvement. The attending physicians do not explain the cause of the accelerated pulse, but are hopeful because the temperature remains close to normal.

Great crowds gather outside the palace walls. For the first time in history the general public has been admitted, subject to approval, to the palace grounds in order to express condolence.

BOY SHOOTS FATHER

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 24.—From Normandy, 10 miles south of Louisville, Everett Thompson was hurried to a local infirmary in an automobile and underwent an operation to remove a 22 caliber bullet from his stomach. His 6-year-old son was playing soldier last night and innocently fired a shot that, it is feared, will cause his father's death.

ALLEGED TRAITOR TO W. F. OF M. ACQUITTED

CRIPPLE CREEK, July 24.—Officially canvassing the referendum vote and finding that President Charles H. Moyer had been reelected president of the Western Federation of Miners was the chief business of the convention at Victor today.

W. Simonson of Globe, Ariz., who had been charged with being a traitor to the federation, was acquitted and given a seat in the convention. For reasons not given, but Dan Sullivan, a member of the executive board of Butte, Mont., [illegible] from the board today and departed for Butte. William Davidson of British Columbia was appointed in his place.

The federation voted to start a campaign of education to obtain new members and most of the morning session was devoted to considering plans. It was decided to improve the Miners' magazine of Denver.

LUHNOW "MYSTERY" IS FAKE, DECLARES WIFE

BOULDER, Colo., July 24.—That the recent newspaper stories of the mysterious disappearance of Christian A. Luhnow, the New York publisher and editor, were faked to force the return of his wife after a separation, and that Luhnow secretly sailed for Europe after filling the New York newspapers with stories of his mysterious disappearance," is the statement made by T. A. McHarg of this city, who has been engaged by Mrs. Luhnow to bring divorce proceedings against her husband. McHarg returned yesterday from a ten days' trip to New York, where he went to gather additional information for use by Mrs. Luhnow in the proceedings to be begun here.

Mrs. Luhnow is spending the summer with her brother, Charles S. Cheney, cashier of the First National bank, Denver, on his ranch at Jack Creek, Colo. She will allege cruelty and inhuman treatment as grounds for her application for divorce. [illegible] M [illegible] in Boulder before her marriage.

Besides the engine tank, which jumped the track and caused the accident, two baggage cars, one chair car and a day coach left the track and slid down the embankment.

Boils, Rashes, Pimples, Etc.

When the blood becomes infected with any unhealthy humor the effect is shown by boils, pimples, and rashes or eruptions on the skin. Humors get into the blood usually because of an inactive condition of the eliminative members. Remove these humors and no skin trouble can exist, because its very source is then destroyed. Boils, rashes, pimples, etc. can never be cured through the application of external medicines, the most to be obtained from such measures is temporary relief. S.S.S. CURES all skin affections because it purifies the blood. It goes down into the circulation and cleanses it of every particle of unhealthy matter. Then the blood supplies nourishment to the cuticle instead of irritating it with a fiery humor. If you have any skin trouble you could not do better than purify your blood with S. S. S. It does not "patch up;" it cures. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice free to all who write and request same.

SENATE SHOWS BURST OF SPEED

MAKES RECORD OF PROGRESS ON BILLS

Clearing Its Docket in Effort to End Quickly the Congressional Session

WASHIGTON, July 24.—With the end of the congressional session dependent upon the speed with which the senate clears its docket, that body made a record of progress today. Among the bills and resolutions passed were:

The sundry civil appropriation bill, carrying $116,000,000 and providing for the continuance of the tariff board.

The military academy appropriation bill, establishing a legislature and partial home rule in the territory.

A resolution directing the secretary of war to investigate claims of Americans to redress for injuries from Mexican outbreaks along the international border in 1911.

A revised Alaskan mining claim measure.

A bill making a federal standard for apples shipped in barrels.

A bill authorizing $750,000 for a memorial amphitheater at Arlington National cemetery near Washington.

A bill to regulate sponge fishing in the Gulf of Mexico and Florida waters.

Democrats Renew Fight.

The Democrats renewed their fight on the tariff board when the sundry civil bill went through the preliminary procedure of passing from the "committee of the whole into the senate," but the appropriation of $225,000 for the board was again indorsed. The provision will be the subject of a renewed fight in conference.

The Alaskan civil government bill which has already passed the house, will require perfecting in conference before it goes to the president. As passed in the senate it provides a legislature of one house consisting of 16 members.

The Alaskan assembly would meet once in two years with its regular sessions restricted to 60 days and special sessions to 15 days, legislators drawing $15 a day for attendance.

The lowlands were quickly inundated and hundreds of persons were compelled to flee. Residences and business places were almost completely submerged in some districts while the Manor valley and Turtle creek railroads together with trolley service, were put out of commission.

More than 2,000 persons were marooned on the hills of Oakford park, where the annual outing of the employes of the Union Supply company from West Moreland and Fayette counties was held today.

Tonight, after wading knee deep in water, the picknickers succeeded in reaching a railroad and were taken to their homes.

A devastating flood rushing down the mountain side spread ruin throughout Dunbar. A cloudburst transformed small streams into torrents. A number of buildings were completely wrecked and hundreds of others damaged. The town is almost entirely under water tonight.

Up to late tonight no fatalities had been reported.

A score of families were caught in their homes in the lower section of the town. To rescue marooned people it was necessary for the rescuers to swim to the houses.

COUNTY WORK ON ROADS

The county force has finished repairing the road leading from the railroad this side of Broad to the Modern Woodmen sanatorium, making it 24 feet wide and graveling the spots where adobe formerly formed the roadbed. The Canon City road also has been graveled and the ditches under county jurisdiction have been cleaned out and, in many cases, drain pipes have been put in.

Monday the county forces will start work on the road which leads from Glen Eyrie to the Modern Woodmen home, and the grader also will be used on the Mesa road. The date of the postponed Good Roads day at Ramah has not been set, and probably will be held back until the present rainy season is over. Whenever a rain occurs in that district some sections of the road are practically impassable because of the adobe, and work on them for some time afterward would be hopeless.

APPRAISER OF CUSTOMS AT NEW ORLEANS RESIGNS

WASHINGTON, July 24.—William P. Luck resigned today as appraiser of customs at New Orleans. Mr. Luck is a supporter of Colonel Roosevelt and in his letter of resignation to Secretary MacVeagh said he intended going into business.

Joseph O. Thompson, collector of internal revenue for Alabama and Mississippi, has been asked to resign, it is said. Mr. Thompson is head of the Roosevelt forces in Alabama.

PRIVATE DETECTIVES ARE BLACKMAILERS, SAYS BURNS

MILWAUKEE, July 24.—Private detectives as a class are the greatest class of blackmailers that ever escaped justice, Detective W. J. Burns told the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Bankers association today.

SINGERS TO MEET IN OMAHA

DULUTH, Minn., July 24.—Omaha today was selected as the next annual meeting place of the western division of the national Swedish Singers. S. Simonson of Omaha, was elected president, and Dr. Charles Bundsen of Denver, second vice president.

"CONSTITUTION SUPREME"

this fell through and the report was heard by the delegates.

Mr. Cohen, who has been a member of the league but one year, completed the report some time ago and presented it at the annual convention of the National Credit Reporting association held a few weeks ago. That body indorsed it. The action of the chairman in having the report presented there prior to the convention for which it was intended, caused many of the members to object. This fact and the alleged radical tenor of some of the measures the report contained caused the wave of opposition.

I. M. SIMONTON
of Tampa, Fla., Member Executive Committee Commercial Law League.

The new canons adopted not only cover the ethics of the bankruptcy law but extend their scope over all commercial law.

The remainder of yesterday's program was of the routine order, with reports, papers and short addresses.

Annual Banquet.

Last night the annual banquet was held in the dining room of the Antlers, and 325 covers were laid. The tables were decorated with profusions of flowers, and the menu was unusually elaborate.

The toastmaster was Frederick P. Vose of Chicago. The first speaker was former Governor Charles S. Thomas, who spoke on "Law Books." An intermission followed, and little Miss Virginia Bryant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Bryant of Detroit, Mich., entertained the guests with some fancy dancing. Earle W. Evans of Wichita, Kan., the next speaker on the program, was too ill to respond, and W. C. Sprague of Detroit, organizer and first president of the league, spoke briefly in his place. His talk was on reminiscenses of the league. Wade Millis of Detroit, spoke on "Eclipse of the Law," closing the program of the evening.

Justice Burch's Address.

In his address on "Constitutions and Courts," Mr. Justice Burch said that a few years ago many able publicists believed that the period of development in the field of constitutional law had closed, and that the country had before it little more than the cultivation of the field of administration. He said that he has not shared this belief.

"As Professor Bergson points out, evolution does not describe the trajectory of a cannon ball," said the speaker. "It more nearly exhibits the conduct of a shell, which after proceeding for some distance bursts into fragments, each of which is itself a shell, which in turn explodes, and so on. The history of the people of the United States illustrates the law."

Judge Burch then quoted the social compact by which the 41 adult males on board the Mayflower, November 11, 1620, organized themselves into a body politic. This notable document was the constitution of the pilgrims' colony, and for some time their governmental organization consisted of a meeting of the men, an elected head man called a governor, and a few assistants, he said.

"From this and other simple societary cells scattered along the Atlantic coast has developed the United States of America," said Justice Burch, "with its 90,000,000 of people and its elaborate, intricate and many times multiplied social and governmental institutions."

He then showed how the growth of the country required changes.

Corrects Popular Impression.

"The interpretation of the Sherman act by the supreme court of the United States," said Justice Burch, "has furnished the occasion for the dissemination of enough misinformation to confuse public opinion in this country concerning the functions of the courts in the matter of judicial interpretation."

The speaker dealt with this subject in a comparative manner, and took up the popular impression that the conduct of American courts, in "reading words into and out of" statutes and other laws, is not tolerated under other judicial systems. He quoted from the British authorities that "where the language of a statute in its ordinary meaning and grammatical construction, leads to a manifest contradiction of the apparent purpose of the enactment, or to some inconvenience or absurdity, hardship or injustice, presumably not intended, a construction may be put upon it which modifies the meaning of the words, and even the structure of the sentence." He then cited that the United States and the state constitutions are laws, and that if acts of the federal or state assemblies conflict with the constitutional laws, one or the other must give way, and the constitution, in each case being supreme, the statute must give way.

He said that Germany gives the judiciary the power to declare statutes unconstitutional, when they conflict with a state constitution, an imperial statute or the imperial constitution, and to treat an imperial law the same way when it conflicts with the imperial constitution.

Constitution Supreme.

The crux of the matter, said the speaker, is laid down in the American constitution "in few and stately words," as follows: "This constitution is the supreme law of the land." "It is over judge, president, parliament and citizen," said Judge Burch, "and it is that constitution which it is the office of the court to carry out."

The speaker laid great stress on the judicial progress of the commonwealth of Australia. The country in 1895 called a convention to frame a federal constitution.

In this regard, Judge Burch said:

"In due time such a convention assembled and its proceedings are noteworthy for the high character of statesmanship displayed by its members. The most intimate knowledge was exhibited of the merits, demerits and actual working of the British parliamentary system of government, and of the governments of Canada and the United States. In the end the American precedent became the principal guide, with its separate spheres of federal and state authority, and its division of power between legislative, executive and judicial establishments. The motto, however, of the Australian delegates seems to have been to 'trust in the people.' Senators are elected by direct vote. In the event of a deadlock between the senate and the house of representatives over legislation strongly advocated by one party, a referendum to the people may be taken; and in numerous other respects the prevailing desire seemed to be that of enlarging the power of self-government. The most careful attention was given to the article relating to the judiciary."

Modeled After the U. S.

He reviewed the progress of the constitution, and the royal assent from England, July 9, 1900, and continued:

"Through the royal proclamation the constitution became effective on January 1, 1901. We have presented to us, therefore, the remarkable spectacle of the queen, lords and commons of Great Britain, in the year of Grace, 1901, putting into effect for the government of the people of a continent a written constitution modeled upon that of the United States of America."

The speaker concluded with the following:

"In order to prevent any possibility of misapprehension I desire to impress upon the convention that my purpose in presenting this paper is in no sense controversial. I merely hope to take out of the air, as President Lowell would say, and bring back to earth the discussion of a subject most deeply interesting alike to lawyer and layman, and especially to call attention to the very recent and much neglected action of the people of the commonwealth of Australia."

The program for today follows:

Morning.

Report of committee on president's report.
Report on special committees.
Report of auditing committee.
Report of memorial committee.
Conclusion of unfinished business.

Evening.

Annual election of officers.
Selecting place for next convention.
Installation of officers.

Titled Woman to Open a Manicuring Shop

NEW YORK, July 24.—Lady Sybil Grey Wilson, daughter of Sir William Grey Wilson, governor general of the Bahama islands, is to open a manicuring establishment in New York for the 400.

Her friends are startled at the announcement which comes from Lady Sybil herself.

At her apartments, 22 East Thirty-first street, she said there is room among the wealthy people for a manicurist and a select trade can be built up.

"At any rate," she said, "I am going to attempt to build up such a trade, and I think I will succeed. The stage? Yes, I'll try that if my present plans fail, but I would much rather open my little manicuring shop."

Lady Grey Wilson is tall and good-looking. Her father is soon to retire from the Bahama post, it is said, and return to the quiet life of the country in England. The daughter is averse to living in some English country town.

KILLS WOMAN WHOM HE OWED AND THEN COMMITTS SUICIDE

PUEBLO, June 24.—Prompted by what is thought to have been business jealousy, Stephen Edl, proprietor of the Club cafe, Alamosa, this morning at 9 o'clock entered the Blanca cafe, owned by Mrs. Thomas Gerber and without warning shot the proprietor through the head. Only a few words were spoken before the shooting, Edl angrily addressing Mrs. Gerber in the Bohemian language as she waited upon a customer in the dining room. The bullet passed through the victim's head and out a front window of the restaurant, barely missing a man and woman who were passing.

Edl, after seeing his victim fall to the floor, ran back into the kitchen and when about in the middle of the room placed the muzzle of the revolver at his right temple and sent a ball crashing through his brain.

Mrs. Gerber lived nearly half an hour after being shot, while Edl lived a couple of hours, but neither regained consciousness.

There are many conflicting reports leading up to the tragedy, but the most probable motive is that Edl owed Gerber $90 in borrowed money and she early this morning had the officers attach and close the Club cafe for the debt. Of late they have both been bitter rivals in their business.

DRIVES FOR SIX DAYS WITH EYE HANGING FROM SOCKET

GREELEY, July 24.—With his right eye hanging from the socket as the result of a blast in a mine near North Park, Colo., John Watt, who, with a companion from Greeley, was inspecting the mine at the time of the accident, drove six days overland before reaching medical attention.

The youths went from North Park to Laramie, Wyo., but could find no physician who would risk an operation. From Laramie they drove to Greeley, where the attention of an eye specialist was secured. It is believed that Watt will lose the sight of both eyes. The blast shattered the globe in a lantern which Watt was carrying on his head and fragments of the glass tore the eye from the socket, while other pieces were imbedded in his face.

GIRL WOULD RATHER BAKE BISCUITS THAN STUDY LAW

CHICAGO, July 24.—"I'd rather bake biscuits than study those mussy old law books," declared Eva Thompson, a member of the graduating class in the University of Chicago law school. Thereupon she threw away the law books and eloped with Russell Stapp, also a graduate of the law school. They went to Crown Point and were married. Later they returned to the Thompson home and were duly forgiven.

Mrs. Stapp's mother is a doctor. She had ambitions for her daughter to shine in the legal profession. The young woman displayed a fondness for the kitchen, and made friends with the cook.

"My husband is going to open an office," says the bride of a day. "I may be able to help him in his profession, but I'd sooner have a nice dinner for him when he gets home than to have a desk in his office."

Mrs. Stapp's mother is perfectly satisfied.

"I have a smart son-in-law," she said. "He fooled me easily and carried away my daughter. Next thing to Eva being a lawyer is to have married one, so I guess I can voice no objections."

CHRISTMAS ISLAND SOLD FOR ITS VALUABLE COPRA

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—Advices from Honolulu report the sale of Christmas Island, reputed original of Robert Louis Stevenson's Treasure Island and center of a web of murderous deeds of less pleasing tales current in the South seas of piracy, blackbirding, treasure seeking and wrecking. The island is valuable as a copra producer. Father Rougier, whose shingle reads: "Real estate, islands bought and sold," negotiated the transfer from the ownership of the Grieg family to an unnamed buyer.

Rougier, with William Grieg and a party, returned to Honolulu, July 15, after a trip occupying nearly sixty days in a power schooner which lost half of its top hamper and wireless aerials in a heavy blow the first night out from Honolulu. The rest of the trip was without incident.

Christmas island is just north of the equator three degrees west and 18 degrees south of Honolulu.

IOWA PROGRESSIVES CHOOSE DELEGATES

DES MOINES, Ia., July 24.—The state convention of the Progressive party late this afternoon adopted a platform containing a plank declaring for the direct election of postmasters by their constituencies.

The convention chose a full set of delegates to the national convention at Chicago, headed by Judge John L. Stevens of Boone, organized a working state committee and provided for congressional district and county organization.

COIN TELLS STORY OF DEATH OF MISSING MAN

CRIPPLE CREEK, July 24.—A blackened coin in the pocket of a dead man, identified today as the body of Thomas Carter, a mine leaser, who has been missing several weeks, told the story of his death by lightning. The body was found at the bottom of a dump on the southern slope of Beacon hill. Whether death was due to an accident or murder had been committed might never have been known but for the burnt coin.

WITNESSES IN ROSENTHAL

"No," replied the witness in a frightened manner.

Mr. Whitman then placed Assistant District Attorney Moss on the stand. Mr. Moss said that just before the hearing Reisler had told him and Mr. Whitman that he came from the subway at Times Square about 2 o'clock and in front of the Cadillac saw Webber running like [illegible]. He then heard of the murder. Mr. Moss said Reisler did not want to talk about the case for fear of being injured.

Reisler was again placed on the stand and declared that Mr. Moss' story was not true. When pressed with questions as to whether he had seen Webber at all he hesitated, made several starts and then said he thought he had seen him. The witness declared he was not afraid of being killed himself but did not want to connect his family with the affair as "the men in the case are bad."

"Didn't you say that any man who testified against Webber would be killed?" persisted the district attorney.

The witness denied this and the questioning was brought to a close.

Arrested on Charge Perjury.

FATHER DEAD; SON GONE

Oliver Thompson, who was rushed to St. Francis hospital last Tuesday night from Husted, where he was taken seriously ill on his way from Denver to Colorado Springs, died shortly afterward in St. Francis hospital. His 15-year-old son, Charles, who left his parents and younger sister at Husted, taking the team and wagon in an effort to earn money for the family, had not been located last night, but is thought to be in the city. No funeral arrangements have been made. The family traveled in the team from Denver to Husted, when the father became too weak to sit up.

KILLED BY ELECTRICITY

TRINIDAD, July 24.—Mike Medinica, a Montenegrin pumpman employed at the Broadhead mine, was instantly killed at noon today by an electric current of 22,000 volts passing through his body. The deceased is survived by a widow and two children.

WRITER ON INTERNATIONAL LAW BIDS U. S. STAND FIRM

Hannis Taylor, Former Minister to Spain, Says This Country Is Sovereign in Canal Zone.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Hannis Taylor, former minister to Spain and a writer on international law, published an open letter here today contending that the Hay-Pauncefote treaty is voidable because of the situation arising out of Panama's ceding the canal zone to the United States. There is no room for hair-splitting on that point, writes Mr. Taylor. "Within the canal zone the United States is sovereign for all the purposes of international law. Under that law it is well settled that a treaty becomes voidable, not void, whenever a change has taken place in the fundamental conditions existing at the time it was made."

The writer quotes Hall, the English authority on international law, in support of that contention.

Mr. Taylor refers to Russia's repudiation in 1870 of certain portions of the treaty of Paris relating to the Black sea, and contends it set a precedent upon which the United States may act.

In conclusion the writer contends in part:

"We must take the firm stand under the well-defined principles of international law as punctuated by the Russian precedent that after there has been an essential change in the conditions existing at the time the treaty was made it becomes voidable. In that way we can justly lift the question out of the domain of international arbitration where we could never obtain a fair hearing, into the domain of diplomatic negotiation with Great Britain where we will be sure to receive fair and friendly consideration."

GOES TO HOME ESTRANGED WIFE TO KILL AN ENEMY

KANSAS CITY, July 24—Mrs. Mamie Gary and Frank Faulkner, a boarder at her home, were sitting on her front porch with her 12-year-old son today when Simon Gary, husband of Mrs. Gary, from whom she had been separated, approached them.

"Hello everybody," said Gary as he kissed his wife and shook hands with Faulkner. "Wife, get me a drink of water, and son, hurry in the house and get ready to go to a picture show."

After the woman and boy left the porch, five shots rang out in quick succession, two of which wounded Faulkner, two went wild, and the last entered Gary's heart, killing him instantly.

Letters found in Gary's pocket, charging Faulkner with destroying his home, indicated Gary intended to kill Faulkner and commit suicide. Faulkner was sent to a hospital, where it was said he would recover. Gary was 35 years old, his wife is 33, and Faulkner is 50.

STEAMER SINKS YACHT

NEW YORK, July 24.—The steamer Old Colony of the Metropolitan steamship line while turning the Battery on her way from Boston to this city this morning crashed into the yacht Idler which soon sank. The passengers and crew on board the Idler were taken off by tugs.

One of the passengers on the Idler, Mrs. Julia M. Skidmore of Brooklyn, was seriously injured. Others of the yacht's passengers suffered from shock and were attended by physicians. Mrs. Skidmore was thrown into the water by the collision and was picked up by one of Idler's lifeboats. There were 14 persons on board the yacht, four women and two children and a crew of eight. After the yacht was struck the Old Colony continued on her way to her dock.

SUIT IS DISMISSED

Judge R. E. Lewis of the United States district court at Denver has dismissed the $15,000 damage suit filed by Mrs. Joseph Seelman of Iowa City, Ia., against Dr. W. V. Mullin, Glockner sanatorium and the Hallett & Baker Undertaking company, all of this city. The court held that the allegations in the complaint were not supported by the facts, and in instructing the jury to find for the defendants, declared that they had acted with perfect propriety. The plaintiff claimed that the body of her son, William, who died at the Glockner, August 5, 1910, had been mutilated.

NO BATTLESHIP PLAN TO BE INSISTED ON

Democrats, in Caucus, Decide by Vote 70 to 62 Not to Change Position

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Democrats of the house in caucus tonight voted 70 to 62 not to recede from their "no battleships" program in the naval appropriation bill. A determined effort was made to have the caucus approve a compromise with the senate whereby the house would agree to the construction of one sea fighter. Representative Fitzgerald, chairman of the appropriations committee, led the opposition to the proposal on the ground of economy.

The action of the caucus further complicates the adjournment plans of the leaders of both the senate and house. The naval appropriation bill is in conference and today's caucus was ordered in an effort to break a deadlock that has prevailed for some time with no apparent chance that it could be broken.

The senate, committed to a two-battleship building program, was willing to compromise on one vessel this year. It has expressed its determination not to recede further.

"What will be the effect of today's action?" Chairman Padgett of the house naval affairs committee and leader of the house conferences was asked, when the caucus adjourned.

Will Sit Tight Says Leader.

"Heaven alone knows," he answered. "I'm just going to sit on the log and I don't know what the outcome will be. However, we'll probably be here until frost arrives."

The caucus was a noisy one. Through the guarded doors the voices of those for and against the battleship plan came plainly. Those in favor of a greater navy because of the approaching opening of the Panama canal, wasted impassioned oratory and sought the support of the "country" members.

Those opposed insisted that the Democratic pledges of economy made it imperative that the naval program, as already approved by a previous house Democratic caucus, should be adhered to.

Representative Sulzer, chairman of the foreign affairs committee, offered a resolution that two battleships be provided and that objections to the senate amendment be withdrawn. Although Mr. Sulzer had a number of supporters, Chairman Padgett moved to amend this proposition by substituting one such vessel, which would be the "last word" in naval construction.

Debate Grows Acrimonious.

Majority Leader Underwood, Representatives Murray of Massachusetts, and Pou of North Carolina, with several others supported Mr. Padgett's suggestion. Mr. Murray, who represents the district in which the Charlestown navy yard is located, confessed he was in favor of two big fighting craft but that in the present temper of the two houses of congress he believed a compromise was necessary to expedite public business.

The debate was growing acrimonious when Representative Burnett of Alabama moved that the entire matter be tabled. There immediately ensued a scene of confusion but the demand for a roll call on the proposal was carried, with the result that the caucus voted to stand by its previous decision. Several ineffectual attempts were made to have the caucus vote to release its members from the pledge exacted by the previous caucus not to vote for battleships this year.

SLAYER OF CAPITALIST IS PAROLED BY COURT

KANSAS CITY, July 24.—Robert F. Curtis, a cigar salesman, who shot and killed Henry C. Gumbel, a capitalist, in a hotel here last September, was paroled by criminal Judge Latshaw today, after Curtis had served three months of a six months' jail sentence.

At his trial Curtis testified that he killed Gumbel because of the latter's attentions to Mrs. Curtis. He testified that he had shot another man in Texas several years ago for his attentions to Mrs. Curtis.

The illness of Curtis' mother who is without support caused Judge Latshaw to grant the parole. Judge Latshaw told Curtis he had no right to kill Gumbel.

"There were some extenuating circumstances in your case, but that was all," he said. "You might have been hanged for what you did. No one in a civilized nation has a right to take the law into his own hands. You killed Gumbel without a trial. The unwritten law is a menace to this country."

BRITISH STRENGTHENING NAVY MORE THAN GERMANY

LONDON, July 24.—In the debate on the naval estimates in the house of commons today, Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, replying to the criticism that he had made inadequate provision to meet the menace he had described, said:

"We are spending £45,000,000 ($225,000,000) this year and we are going to spend more next year. We are raising the personnel of the navy to 141,150 by 1913 and to 146,000 in 1914. As regards construction, Germany this year is laying down two new battleships and we four. Next year Germany is laying down one extra and we two. This year Germany is laying down two small cruisers, we are laying down eight. Germany in the course of the next 18 months is laying down 21 destroyers; we 43. There is no cause for panic or alarm."

PICKPOCKET RETURNS BALLPLAYER'S WATCH

Sends It Back When Learns That Fob Was Gift to Grover Gilmore From President Taft

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—That even a pickpocket would not knowingly rob a baseball player was shown today when a package containing a stolen watch was returned to the recent address of Grover Gilmore, who is on his way to Buffalo after being released by the San Francisco Coast league team.

Gilmore's departure was saddened last Sunday by the loss of his watch with a fob that had been given him by President Taft, one of his admirers. The theft was reported by the newspapers. Today a package, without identifying marks, was received, which was found to contain both watch and its much prized fob. The articles will be forwarded to Gilmore.

4,000 U. S. SOLDIERS IN MIMIC WARFARE

CAMP McCOY, SPARTA, Wis., July 24.—Equipped with "pup" tents, two days' rations and hundreds of thousands of blank cartridges, 4,000 United States troops, including 1,500 infantry and 2,200 cavalry, field artillery, outposts and hospital corps, all on a war basis, left camp here today to engage in what war department experts say will be one of the most extensive mimic campaigns ever held in the United States. With a battlefield stretching over two counties, the regulars expect to engage a hostile force of equal strength, composed mostly of state troops which was to advance from the Wisconsin military reservation at Camp Douglas, 25 miles away. It is not believed the opposing forces will meet before tomorrow when a general engagement will begin. Meantime each side is to advance on the theory that each is invading a strange and hostile country with no previous knowledge of the enemy's defense. The victories of the various sham battles and the final outcome of the campaign ten days hence and the number of "casualties" are to be determined on the theoretical points.

The Camp Douglas force under Col. Orlando Holloway of LaCrosse consists of the Second and Third Wisconsin and the Third Illinois regiments, the third squadron of the Fifteenth U. S. cavalry from Fort Sheridan, one-half of the U. S. ambulance corps from Fort Leavenworth and Battery A of the First Wisconsin artillery.

It may be Saturday before the full strength of each side is brought under fire. Until then the soldiers are to solve theoretical problems.

Each soldier carried fifty rounds of equipment including 150 rounds of ammunition, half of a small tent, a blanket and two days' rations.

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., July 24.—About 200 soldiers technically were killed, many were wounded, scores of spies and prisoners were captured and bridges and railroads were blown up, as the result of the war department's maneuvers begun today to stimulate actual war conditions for regular and state troops.

Between here and Camp McCoy, 34 miles to the west, the government has arranged a battlefield upon which in the next 10 days 10,000 troops will, with blank cartridges, cannon and other accoutrements, undertake an extensive campaign.

STOCK GROWERS, FAILING DO TO BUSINESS, ADJOURN

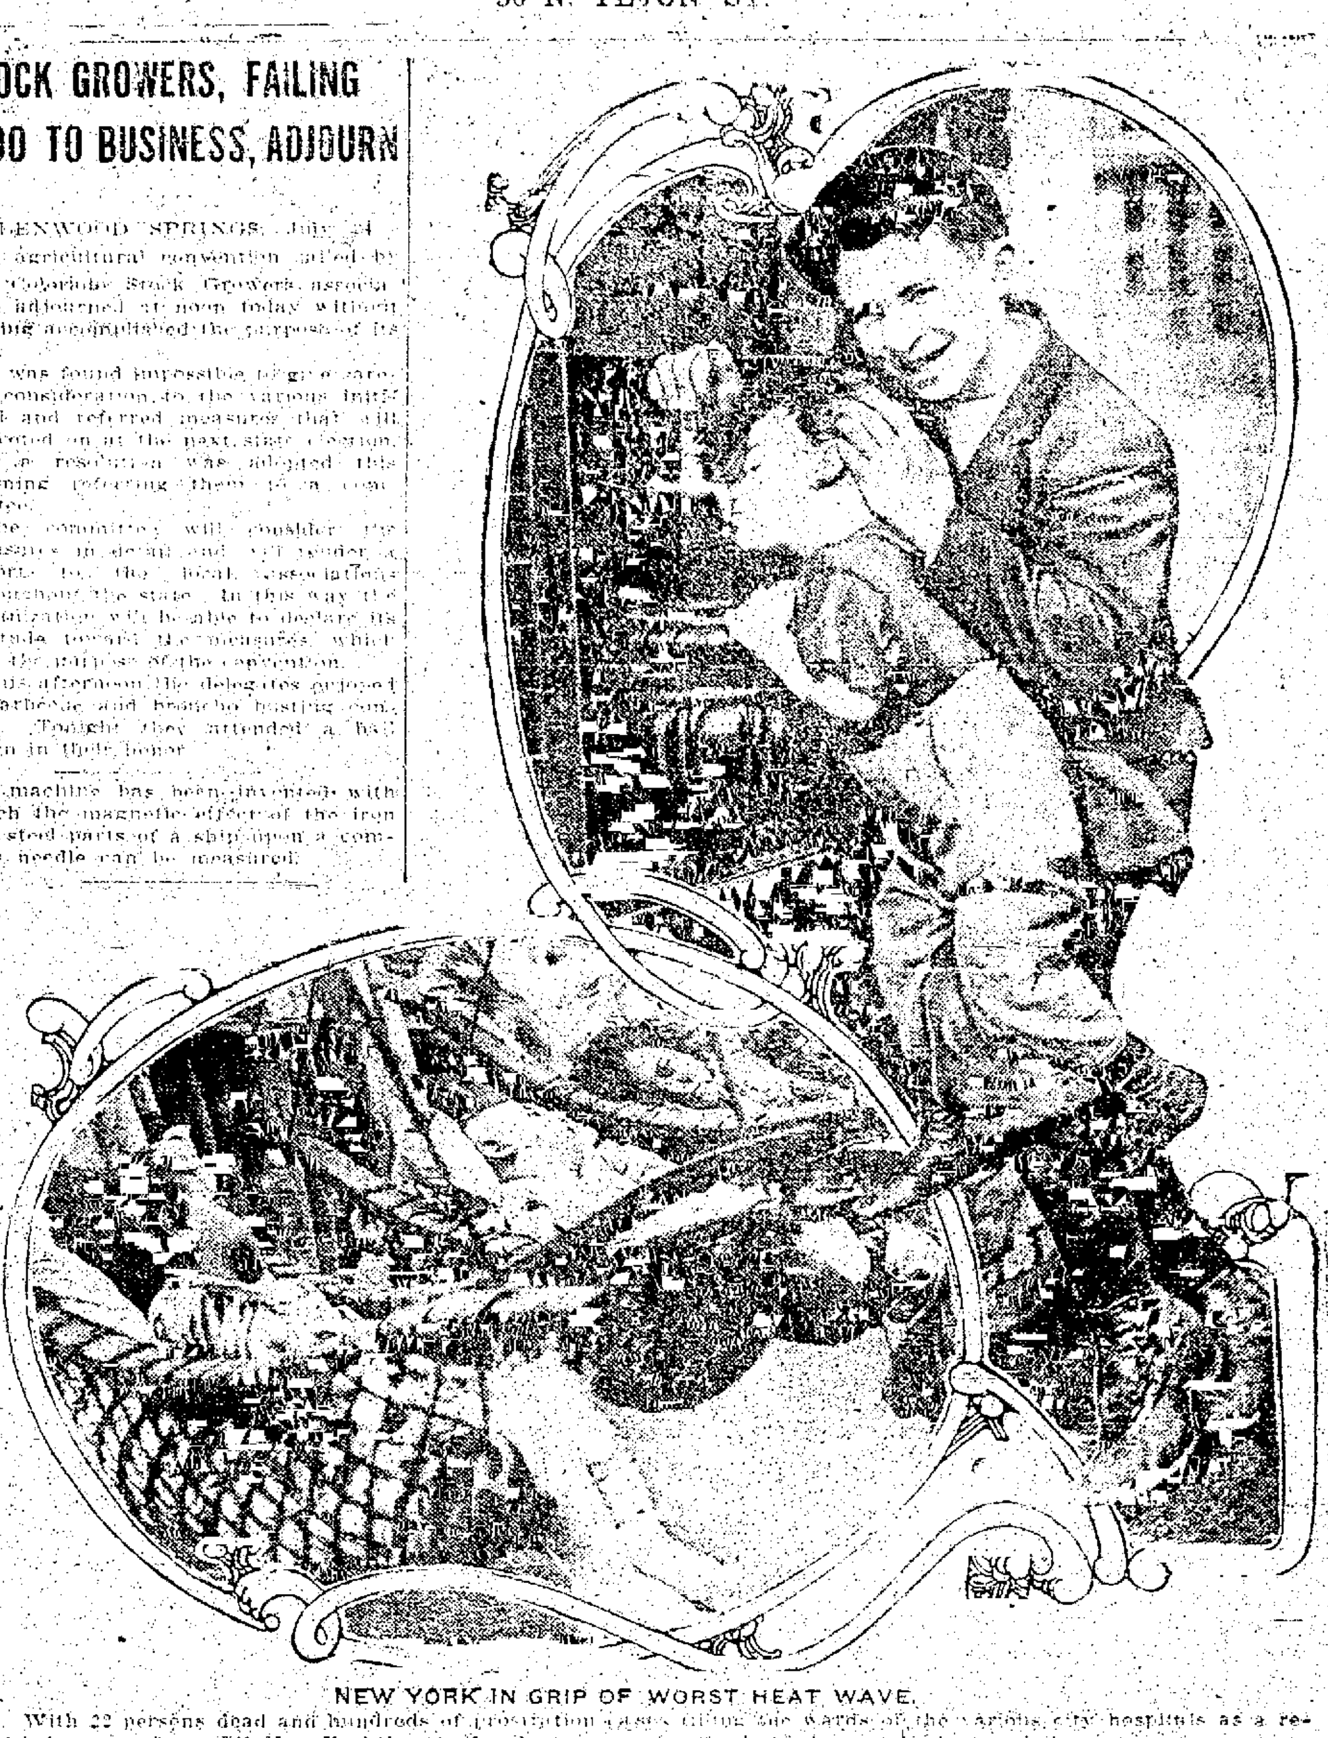

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, July 24.—The agricultural convention called by the Colorado Stock Growers association adjourned at noon today without having accomplished the purpose of its call.

It was found impossible to give careful consideration to the various initiated and referred measures that will be voted on at the next state election, and a resolution was adopted this morning referring them to a committee.

The committee will consider the measures in detail and will render a report to the local associations throughout the state. In this way the organization will be able to declare its attitude toward the measures, which was the purpose of the convention.

This afternoon the delegates enjoyed a barbecue and broncho busting contest. Tonight they attended a ball given in their honor.

A machine has been invented with which the magnetic effect of the iron and steel parts of a ship upon a compass needle can be measured.

NEW YORK IN GRIP OF WORST HEAT WAVE.

With 22 persons dead and hundreds of prostration cases filling the wards of the various city hospitals as a result of the worst hot wave New York has suffered in years, the people of the metropolis are daily praying for a cessation of the humidity, which is causing such intense misery among the poorer classes. In the upper photograph a New York youngster is shown kindly "giving a boost" to a comrade at one of the public drinking fountains, which are the most popular spots in the great city. Below is a photograph of several babies sleeping in little hammocks on one of the recreation piers on the East river, one of the places where mothers of the east side, with their infants, are seeking refuge from the stifling heat of the crowded tenement districts.

IMPROVEMENT NOTED IN EMPEROR'S CASE

TOKIO, July 25.—The official bulletin issued at 6 o'clock this morning on the condition of the emperor was more reassuring than that posted at 11 o'clock Wednesday night. This morning's bulletin gave the temperature of the emperor as 98.7, pulse, 104; respiration, 32.

Last night's bulletin read: "Temperature, 104.2; pulse over 100; irregular. Patient increasingly fatigued."

A physician remained at the bedside throughout the night, as conditions were considered unfavorable. A minister of the household said this morning that the emperor had slept fairly well. The acceleration of the pulse is regarded as serious but not critical.

The 11 o'clock bulletin created alarm and the princes were summoned to the palace at 2 o'clock in the morning. The newspapers delayed issue until after 6 o'clock, when assurances were given of a pronounced improvement. The attending physicians do not explain the cause of the accelerated pulse but are hopeful because the temperature remains close to normal.

Great crowds gather outside the palace walls. For the first time in history the general public has been admitted, subject to approval, to the palace grounds in order to express condolence.

BOY SHOOTS FATHER

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 24.—From Normandy, 40 miles south of Louisville, Everett Thompson was hurried to a local infirmary in an automobile and underwent an operation to remove a 22 caliber bullet from his stomach. His 8-year-old son was playing soldier last night and innocently fired a shot that, it is feared, will cause his father's death.

ALLEGED TRAITOR TO W. F. OF M. ACQUITTED

CRIPPLE CREEK, July 24.—Officially canvassing the referendum vote, and finding that President Charles F. Moyer had been reelected president of the Western Federation of Miners, was the chief business of the convention at Victor today.

W. Simonson of Globe, Ariz., who had been charged with being a traitor to the federation, was acquitted and given a seat in the convention. For reasons not given out, Dan Sullivan, a member of the executive board of Butte, Mont., resigned from the board today and departed for Butte. William Davidson of British Columbia was appointed in his place.

The federation voted to start a campaign of education to [illegible] members and most of the morning session was devoted to considering plans. It was decided to improve the Miners' magazine of Denver.

LUHNOW "MYSTERY" IS FAKE, DECLARES WIFE

BOULDER, Colo., July 24.—That the recent newspaper stories of the mysterious disappearance of Christian A. Luhnow, the New York publisher and editor, were faked to force the return of his wife after a separation, and that Luhnow secretly sailed for Europe after filling the New York newspapers with stories of his mysterious disappearance, is the statement made by T. A. McHare of this city, who has been engaged by Mrs. Luhnow during divorce proceedings against her husband. McHare returned yesterday from a ten days' trip to New York, where he went to gather additional information for use by Mrs. Luhnow in the proceedings to be begun here.

Mrs. Luhnow is spending the summer with her brother, Charles S. Cheney, cashier of the First National Bank, Denver, on his ranch at Oak Creek, Colo. She will allege cruelty and inhuman treatment as grounds for her application for divorce. Other grounds [illegible] Mrs. Luhnow [illegible] in Boulder before her marriage.

Boils, Rashes, Pimples, Etc.

When the blood becomes infected with any unhealthy humor the effect is shown by boils, pimples, and rashes or eruptions on the skin. Humors get into the blood usually because of an inactive condition of the eliminative members. Remove these humors and no skin trouble can exist, because its very source is then destroyed. Boils, rashes, pimples, etc. can never be cured through the application of external medicines, the most to be obtained from such measures is temporary relief. S.S.S. CURES all skin affections because it purifies the blood. It goes down into the circulation and cleanses it of every particle of unhealthy matter. Then the blood supplies nourishment to the cuticle instead of irritating it with a fiery humor. If you have any skin trouble you could not do better than purify your blood with S. S. S. It does not "patch up;" it cures. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice free to all write and request same.

THE FUNDAMENTAL ISSUE

THE trail leads from political agents having no visible means of support, to party central committees, to political caususes and conventions, to recreant legislatures which pass bills for the benefit of special interests, to subservient governors who sign such bills at the behest of corporation attorneys, to the corporations who profit by the legislation, back to the political agents who are granted a portion of the profits with which to operate the party machinery. This trail is a sinuous one; it is a vicious circle, but it has been charted. "Politics for profit; profit for politicians" is the compass that will enable even the uninitiated to follow its circuitous course.

That big business has dominated politics in the United States for its own profit is evident to the merest tyro. However, the manner in which big business makes its moves in the political game is extremely mysterious; even the alert may be mystified and misled. Nevertheless the complicated political moves of big business reveal a unifying purpose; to keep political power in the hands of the few and out of the hands of the many. Big business distrusts democracy.

CORPORATION CONTROLLED POLITICIANS.

In Colorado the activity of big business in politics has been especially pernicious. The bipartisan Guggenheim-Speer forces have been insolent in their treatment of the citizenship of this state. Today neither Republicans nor Democrats control their party and the people do not direct their state government.

That the Guggenheim machine controlled the last Republican state convention and that the Speer machine controlled the last Democratic state convention there can be no doubt. Both machines say to it that the party machinery was in "safe" hands.

With Guggenheim a national committeeman and with Tom Devine, Archie Stevenson, Henry Brady and Jim Williams as active as ever in directing the party machinery within the state there is no evidence that big business has lost its old-time power over the Republican party machinery of Colorado.

The move taken to exclude all those Republicans who have opposed the Guggenheim machine from participation in county and state assemblies was arbitrary and unprecedented. It is the last panic-stricken effort of machine leaders to maintain control of the party organization. The action demonstrates that those leaders fear to trust party action to the voters of the party.

THE ISSUE AT STAKE.

This issue in the present campaign is familiar: big business in politics versus the voters. The Gazette will make its campaign upon this issue.

This paper has no fight to make against party organization as such; it does have a fight to make against party organization dominated by business interests as opposed to party members.

This paper has no fight to make against corporations as such; it does have a fight to make against those corporations which have left their legitimate fields of activity to dominate politics.

This paper has no fight to make against individual candidates for office as such; it does have a fight to make against all candidates who owe their nominations to the sinister influences which have dominated Colorado politics.

Such a fight is one not of personalities or mud-slinging but a fight for principle. We hold with Stewart that "Fundamentally our campaign is to restore to Republicans their party and to the people their state government."

The Gazette has fought this fight for years. It will continue the contest into the future until big business keeps to its legitimate activities, the Republican party is restored to its members and the state government of Colorado to its citizens.

IGNORING THE ASSEMBLY

PHILIP B. STEWART possesses the effective faculty of making his statements concise and clear. His reference to the assembly feature of our present primary law in his address at Fowler yesterday was characteristic.

"We cannot entirely escape the fetters of machine government until we have legislated out of the primary law the feature known as the assembly. With this vicious machine 'rider' eliminated, our primary law is an admirable one. At the present time the law, in its entirety, has appendicitis. The assembly feature is the appendix and a political irritant. Until the people perform the operation and remove that appendix the main body of the law cannot be healthy."

The application of the idea, as expressed by Mr. Stewart, makes it plain to the people. In Mesa and Delta counties the rank and file of the Republicans have agreed to ignore these assemblies and add vigor to the situation by defying any candidate to enter, accept a designation and then place his cause before the people at the primaries.

The people are demanding a more direct form of legislation so that they may be enabled to control governmental affairs. The interests represented by Denver and corporations potential in the affairs of the nation politically are interposing every feature possible to remain in control and perpetuate their tenure to party control. The assembly feature of our present primary law is an evidence of this intent. The next session of the legislature should repeal that feature of the law.

COST OF TUBERCULOSIS IN DOLLARS

From the Philadelphia North American.

Irving Fisher, professor of economics at Yale university, has figured out the cost of tuberculosis to the United States aside from the losses to the victims themselves. The annual loss to society, he says, is over $570,000,000. This includes the depletion in earnings of those affected by the disease and the entire curtailment of such earnings through untimely deaths.

It is impossible to see how such an estimate could be made with any positive assurance of accuracy, but, judging from the means by which Mr. Fisher has arrived at his result, one cannot help feeling that his was a conscientious effort, and is as near the truth as such estimates can be.

Granting that he is a hundred million or so out of the way, the result is staggering, nevertheless. It is also an argument for greater effort in fighting the dread disease. Much progress has been made along this line within recent years, but even greater concerted effort is necessary. Looking at the question merely from a monetary standpoint, the saving of half a billion dollars annually seems well worth while, and the money now being spent in fighting the plague is an excellent national investment.

"SEEING AMERICA FIRST"

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

Estimates of the amount of money spent in foreign countries by American tourists vary greatly, but that it is very large is not to be questioned. Only the other day the cable told of London merchants figuring that travelers from the United States would this year spend $60,000,000 in Europe alone, and that they were planning measures to get their share of it.

It is because of this steady flow of tourists to the countries of the old world that a movement has been begun in this country to keep some of the travel at home. As a means of aiding the movement an organization has been formed by the passenger officials of several of the large railroads and a systematic campaign of publicity will be begun which, it is expected, will result in making the scenic beauties of America better known.

In the variety and the magnificence of its natural scenery the United States surpasses the world, yet comparatively few in the large centers of population realize this. It is not unlikely, for instance, that the majority of American tourists who spend money to travel the Rhine, the Danube and other rivers of Europe have ever devoted a week to the Ohio or the Mississippi, and many of them possibly not a day to the Hudson or the St. Lawrence.

Coming farther west, how many easterners have seen the Rockies or the Sierra as compared with those who have visited the Alps? How many have gazed upon the grandeur of our canons, have looked upon the wonders of our dozen national parks, have strolled amid the majesty of the great trees or witnessed the marvels of the geysers?

Those who visit foreign lands and plow the waters of classic times may acquire education and enjoy delightful dreams of earlier nations and of characters of antiquity. But so, too, they may, even in less degree, in the United States. It is, indeed, one of the striking features of American history that the greater number of important events have occurred amidst bold and beautiful scenery.

American cities have not the interest to the American traveler that foreign cities have—because they are not foreign. But American scenery is "foreign" in the sense that it is comparatively little known. A campaign of publicity which would include the distribution of descriptive literature and attractive photographs would repay much more than the expense involved.

ABOUT OVERDRESSING BABIES

From the Philadelphia North American.

The day before yesterday was very hot. Adult persons who had to move about were uncomfortable and likely to be irritable. Among the thousands of others who were uncomfortable and irritable was a woman on a Market street elevated train. She was dressed cool enough. Her arms were scarcely covered with thin, transparent sleeves. Her neck was bare and free. On her head a straw hat, the weight of which was hardly perceptible, sat lightly.

In other respects she was dressed as cool as the absurd fashions of womankind permitted. If she suffered because of the fashions, it was of her own choosing. She was free to dress as she pleased. Yet she was uncomfortable and irritable.

She had with her a toddling baby. The baby was hot and uncomfortable and restless. The mother frequently turned to the little girl, and in a peevish voice reproved her for her fretfulness.

The baby was much more uncomfortable than the mother, and the baby wasn't to blame. For the mother had dressed the little one in outlandish vanity. The baby had on a coat, buttoned close about the neck. And on her little head she wore one of those awful contrivances of lace and ribbon and silk which women who have more money than taste buy for babies to wear.

It is an offense against children to put such hideous frames about their dear little faces at any time. But we are not now discussing the taste of the thing. The foolishness of women who waste money in hideous gimcracks with which to hide the beauties of their children is really a big subject, and quite worthy of an editorial. But it is something else we have in mind now. It is the torture which that poor little girl on the crowded train was undergoing, and against which she could not protest without bringing an angry reproof from her mother.

And that baby girl was only one of perhaps thousands who were suffering in a similar way for the foolish vanity of the mothers. When that mother bought the silly bonnet, and paid some $5 or $6 for the mass of silk and lace and ribbon and rosettes and other things, she thought she was doing it for the love of the baby. But she wasn't. She was doing it to flatter her own pride. It pleased the mother to see the baby bedecked in obviously expensive finery. No doubt the mother had in mind the effect it would have on her friends and neighbors, how they would openly admire and secretly envy her the garish thing.

And having bought it, of course she must show it. Baby must suffer the torture of that bonnet on a hot day, wit hthe mercury running about 90 in the weather station and nearer 100 on the street level.

First, there was the silk hood which served as a lining. Then there was the superstructure of laces and ruffles, with a hideous wad of ribbons over each ear. The poor little head might as well have been wrapped in fur. It wouldn't have been any more uncomfortable.

This may seem a lot to write about one baby and its bonnet. But that one baby is a type of thousands.

The hot season is now at hand. The months of July and August are particularly dangerous for infants. The death rate is fearful. The overdressing of children is one of the largest auxiliary causes of the death rate. Children are often kept in a state of constant superheat because they are overloaded with clothing. Their vitality is sapped. They become all the more easy prey to the diseases of summer which attack them through the digestive tract.

The little girl's bonnet is a symbol. It is altogether likely that when she got home her head was wet with sweat. Then in the cool house her mother took off the gaudy thing, because it no longer served her vanity. And if the baby caught cold, the mother was at a loss to account for it. She had been so careful, you know, whenever she went out.

Use common sense in dressing children. In the heat of the day keep them cool. Don't wrap up their heads. Don't have tight clothing about their necks and chests. If the evening or nights turn cool, give them enough covering to make them comfortable, not a bit more.

Keep them clean. Keep their food clean. See that their milk is fresh and sweet. Keep the flies away from them. Give them all the outdoor air possible. And don't get cross and irritable with them if they become tired and uncomfortable under the heat. And don't hide their beautiful heads in a mass of finery which only adds to their discomfort and advertises your own bad taste and foolish vanity.

ANYONE LIKE TO SUB FOR ANDY?

From the Gouverneur (N. Y.) Free Press.

Andrew Shampney of Yonkers has appealed to the police to make his wife quit kissing and hugging him. "I'm sick and tired of her actions," he said.

OH, HYMEN!

From the Charlotte (Ky.) Chronicle.

The groom is a successful physician of Henrietta, a young gentleman of splendid worth and brilliant promise, for he is endowed by birth and training with all those noble impulses in winsome traits that adorn true manhood. The bride is a lady of wondrous fascination and remarkable attractiveness, for with manners as enchanting as the wand of a siren and a disposition as sweet as the odors of flowers and spirits as joyous as the carollings of birds and mind as brilliant as those glittering tresses that adorn the brow of winter, and with heart as pure as dewdrops trembling in a coronet of violets, she will make the home of her husband a paradise of enchantment like the lovely home of her girlhood, where the heaven-toned harp of marriage, with its chords of love and devotion and fond endearments, sent forth the sweetest strains of felicity that ever thrilled the senses with the rhythmic pulsings of ecstatic rapture.

The Unreasonable Maid

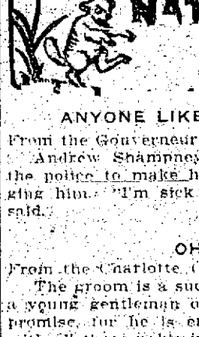

By RUTH CAMERON.

A maid was once sent out from an employment bureau to a position, and on finding that the room in which she was expected to live was a wretched little hole, miserably furnished, with no paper on the wall, no arrangements for heating and one tiny window, told the lady of the house that she did not wish to stay, because she felt she could never make that room look homelike.

Whereupon she departed. And now the lady of the house goes about telling this experience as an illustration of how abominably presumptuous and uppish housework girls are becoming. And almost everywhere she tells it she receives sympathy. "The idea," exclaimed her friends. "The idea. You simply can't do anything with them nowadays, they are so independent. Wouldn't stay because she couldn't make the room look homelike. What do they expect—guest chambers?"

My friends, it seems to me that in that little incident is illustrated one of the chief causes of the maid problem.

That a housework girl should want to have her room look homelike and should refuse to stay in a place where she couldn't make it so, seemed the acme of absurdity to these good women. They regarded it as unwarrantable independence on her part.

And yet a maid's bedroom means much more to her than her mistress' chamber does to the mistress, for the maid's bedroom must also be her living room.

If these women, who were most of them kind-hearted in other relations of life, had thought of the maid who wanted a homelike room as a human being like themselves, they wouldn't have seen anything extraordinary in her demands. But they were so in the habit of looking upon her as a distinct species of animal life—the genius maid, that they didn't think of applying to her the test of similar desires and needs.

There was a little story in the joke columns of one of the magazines the other day, which, to my mind, came almost as near pathos as humor. It ran something like this. A maid has asked leave to go home to her mother who is very ill. The mistress says she may go, only she mustn't stay long as she is much needed. At the end of a week the maid writes something to this effect: "Dear Mrs. ———, I will be back real soon, and please keep my place for me. Mother is dying as fast as she can."

Probably that never happened, but if maids would assume the attitude many mistresses try to thrust upon them it certainly could have come to pass.

Undoubtedly there is fault on both sides in the servant problem. Undoubtedly maids are often trying, incompetent, untrustworthy and a thousand other things. But I don't believe that anything can excuse mistresses from this unfeeling and unintelligent attitude towards the maid as a creature instead of a human being.

When mistresses cease to assume this attitude, and get the thought that their maids really are women with natural desires for happiness and homelike rooms and appreciation and pretty clothes, perhaps girls will not consider housework the most degrading of occupations and will not prefer to it the most exhausting and ill-paid work in shop or factory.

Seven Famous Court Jesters

NO. 2 CHICOT

The French court had its jesters equally early with that of the English; in fact, more so, for we learn that the earliest example of a French court fool was during the reign of Hugh Capet; in fact, there is reference to such a person as having amused the court as early as the reign of Charles the Simple.

The most famous of all French jesters was John (or Sebastian) Chicot. The aspiring and conspiring Duke of Mayenne first brought Chicot into notice at the court of Henri III. Cardinal Perron, in his "Perroniana," published at Cologne, 1694, speaks in high praise of this Gascon gentleman, for the latter was de Chicot, and proud of the prefix before he descended to plain Chicot, and became fool to the king.

Like most Gascons, Chicot was poor, but he seems to have first repaired to court not so much with the intention of pushing his fortune as seeking protection against the manners and rough usages of the Duke de Mayenne, who looked with favor on a lady who was the object also of the homage of the tall and humorous Gascon.

The mirth inspired by the sallies of Chicot soon attracted the notice of the king, and the quaint fellow speedily discovered that he might turn his wit to more profitable use at the Louvre and at Fontainebleau than he could his industry devoted to any professional pursuit in Paris.

If the nobles at the French court winced under the sarcastic speeches of the fool, and threatened vengeance, Henri would protect him, in his character alike of fool and gentleman, and in return Chicot took an infinite delight in countermanding orders issued by the king, and standing at Henri's toilet, thought nothing of dipping his fingers into the monarch's perfumed cream and tearing the royal combs through his rough beard.

At times Henri would appeal to Chicot, not as his jester, but as a man of sense, and his friend. Chicot, on the other hand, would make suggestions worth adopting, and quote from books in support of his advice or opinions. The familiarity of the two was so great that they often slept in the same room; and by day traveled in the same litter, drawn by half a dozen mules, or, where the roads were difficult, by as many oxen.

Chicot cannot be said to have been a graceful fellow. His arms and legs were immoderately long. He was all nerves, muscle and bone. He maintained a superiority over his royal master through the fears of the latter, and the author of "Les Quarante-Cinq" represents Henri as having a superstitious dread of his jester, who was occasionally a sort of phantom-buffoon, suddenly appearing and disappearing in a way which perplexed Henri, but which admitted of very natural explanations.

Chicot's humor was bold. Of his bravery we have an instance in his conduct at the siege of Rouen, where he behaved so gallantly that he made Henri of Lorraine prisoner with his own hand. The count was so enraged when Chicot jestingly carried him before the king that, in an unguarded moment, he smote the jester on the head so violently with the hilt of his sword that Chicot died after lingering for a fortnight.

TOMORROW—SCOGAN

THE CELL WORKERS

How they Work to Preserve the Human Body

From the Nautilus Magazine.

The blood cells are important members of the cell community and are exceedingly numerous, there being over 75,000,000,000 of the red blood cells alone. These red-blood cells move in the blood currents, carrying through the arteries each its little load of oxygen which it transports to the distant tissues that they may be invigorated and vitalized anew; and, returning, carrying through the veins the debris and waste products of the system to the great crematory of the lungs where the waste is burnt and thrown off from the body. Like the ships that sail the sea, each cell carries its outgoing cargo, and returns with another one. Some of these cells perform the office of special repairers, forcing their way through the walls of the blood vessels and penetrating the tissues in order to perform their special tasks. There are several other kinds of cells in the blood besides the carriers just mentioned. There are the wonderful soldier and police cells which maintain order and fight battles when necessary. The police cells are on the constant lookout for germs, bacteria and other microscopic disturbers of the peace of the body. When these tiny policemen discover vagrant germs or criminal bacteria, they rush upon the intruder and, tying him up in a mesh, proceed to devour him. If the intruder be too large or vigorous, a call for assistance is sent out, and the reserve police rush to the assistance of their brothers and overpower the disturber of the peace. Sometimes when the vagrants are too numerous, the policemen throw them out from the body by means of pimples, boils and similar eruptions. In case of infectious diseases an army corps is ordered out in full strength and a royal fight is waged between the invading army and the defenders of home and country.

AN ELECTRIC BAKERY

During recent years many new devices for mixing dough and making loaves of bread have been invented in various parts of the world, but the latest, and doubtless the most complete, device of this character is an electric bakery installed in the city of Glasgow, where the flour and other materials are weighed or measured and the entire mixing and baking processes are automatically done by electricity.

Experts declare the product a success. It is as fine bread as can be produced by other methods, and time, materials and labor are saved. It is predicted that we shall export more for our money in the future by reason of the saving effected.

THE HASKIN LETTER

NEW THINGS IN PHOTOGRAPHY

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

The thirty-second annual convention of the Photographers Association of America which is in session this week in Philadelphia, is attended not only by the leading photographers of America but also includes a number of European photographers of international reputation, several of whom are presenting some new discoveries in the photographic art to their brothers of the camera. A feature of the convention is the best collection of foreign photographs ever exhibited in this country. There also is a school of posing and lighting as one feature, conducted by masters in the art of portrait photography who are demonstrating their newest methods.

The photographers' art in America reached its first practical stage chiefly through the efforts of two Philadelphians who improved upon the methods of Louis Daguerre, the inventor of the process which resulted finally in the production of the old-fashioned daguerreotype. Daguerre was a theatrical scene painter in Paris and he made his famous diorama in 1822. An account of this was published in Poulson's Advertiser," an old Philadelphia publication which led Joseph Saxton, an employe of the United States mint in Philadelphia, to experiment along the same lines. He made a camera out of a cigar box, using an ordinary magnifying glass as a lens. With this crude apparatus he made a photograph of the Philadelphia High school which is still preserved by the Pennsylvania Historical society. In November, 1839, according to the annals of the American Philosophical society in Philadelphia, Robert Cornelius obtained the first photographic portrait of a human face known in the world. Encouraged in his success Cornelius devoted himself to perfecting his art. He concentrated the light upon his sitter by a series of reflectors set up at different angles and used blue glass to screen the light falling directly upon his subject. He opened a place for taking pictures by the Daguerrean method, his exposures averaging one minute in length.

Engaged Sittings Weeks Ahead.

All of his apparatus he manufactured himself and his lenses were of Philadelphia make. Daguerrean portraiture was thus established in Philadelphia and attracted wealthy and artistic people from all parts of the country. Sittings had to be engaged by appointments a week in advance and no pictures could be taken upon a rainy or cloudy day. Many of the Cornelius pictures are still in existence and present some fine characteristics worthy of the study of the modern photographer.

At the beginning, photographs were only for the rich but now owing to the development of photographic science they are within reach of all. They have become so cheap that they are used extensively for advertising purposes, and with the simple methods for their production have developed hundreds of thousands of amateurs who make their own photographs sometimes with a skill almost equal to that of the professional. The fact that photographic supplies have become so simple to manipulate has made results possible now which even a decade ago would have been impossible.

The photographic supply industry now has become of sufficient importance to merit consideration by the governments of at least three nations of the world. For instance one company making these articles is the largest user of silver in the world outside of a government mint. The production of photographic paper is counted in miles each day and the daily output of glass plates might easily be measured in acres. The question of the supply of raw materials is a serious one. For instance one of the great photographic houses, after months of costly experiment, abandoned the use of a new paper because it was found that the known world's supply of one of the ingredients would not have kept them running for three months. There is one factory which orders its supply of potassium bromide in 30-ton lots. England and America produce the greatest quantity of photographic supplies although they are manufactured to some extent in Germany and France, and in small quantities in several other countries.

Must Be Made in Temperate Regions.

Climatic conditions so far have tended to restrict the manufacture of most of the chemical supplies used in photography so that they must be made in the temperate regions. Because these products are unstable different attempts have been made to produce them in the localities in which they are to be used but so far without success. Although films are sold which are guaranteed for use in the tropics there is as yet no means known by which they might be manufactured there.

Additional branches of the photographic art are being developed each year. One of the latest is the reproduction of the pictures by the old masters, not by photographing the paintings themselves, but by posing sitters or models to represent the figures in the paintings. This is one form of high art photography. Another includes the photographing of landscapes and other scenes with a view to producing pictures of high artistic value. Then comes the photographing of interiors, including statuary and other art objects with a knowledge of the different effects to be secured by various processes and materials.

Portraiture is usually considered the highest art in photography and is perhaps the most in demand. In this respect great advances are being made each year and the modern photographer of human faces must have a knowledge of many things other than how merely to secure the reproduction of forms upon his negative. He must know enough of psychology to understand his sitter's temperament and to bring out in the portrait the best expressions of it. While cheap photographs such as may be secured on the curb or street corner, while you wait, for a cent apiece have had a run of popularity, their day is practically over. The public gradually is recognizing the difference between the work of a cheap tradesman and that of a fine artist and they are willing to pay for it. The prices for good portrait photographs were never higher than they are now.

Photographic Studios Doomed?

In this connection mention should be made of the exhibition of the works of Baron Adolph de Meyer of London which recently was held in New York—the finest selections of high art prints by any one man ever exhibited here. One of these, called "The Silver Skirt," presumably a portrait of Baroness de Meyer, was purchased by a New York collector for $150 and another entitled "The Silver Cup" was purchased for the Albright art gallery of Buffalo. The exhibition included portraits of the late King Edward, Queen Alexandra and other members of the British royal family. In contrast to these were portraits of three old women of the slums in London, which portray these poor worn-out old toilers as skillfully as any painter. The Baron de Meyer charges a hundred dollars for a single portrait. He may have his sitter come and pose several times before making a photograph. In this way he studies his personality and the traits which should be brought out prominently in the picture.

Home photography is rapidly becoming a popular feature in the work of the portrait photographer. A well known photographer predicts that within a few years the fashionable photographic studio will have become a thing of the past. In place of it, there will be workshops located on side streets from which orders will be taken for photographs to be made at the homes of the patrons. The skilled operators will be sent in automobiles carrying a full equipment of apparatus and the pictures will be posed in the home of the sitter. Often they will have an added value because of the introduction of some familiar piece of furniture or for having a favorite corner as a background. This is especially desirable for women who desire to be photographed in a number of different gowns. It is also the best arrangement for securing natural photographs of children, since they always are more at their ease

RAIN CAUSES DAMAGE IN VICINITY PIKE VIEW

One or more wagon bridges are out near Husted, and the supply pipe line for the Pike View coal mine is broken, forcing the closing down of the mine until today, as a result of the heavy rain which fell yesterday afternoon in the district between Pike View and Monument. No damage was done at Monument, as the rain there was only light, but automobile parties coming from Denver found washed out bridges near Husted, and were forced to make a detour by way of Breed. They found everything in good condition this side of Pike View. The rising of the creek took out the supply pipe line of the Pike View coal mine, which crosses it, and left the mine without water.

Aunt Sally's Advice to Beauty Seekers

K. C. F. asks: "Will you tell me how to get my hands white and soft? They have become rough and are so dark in contrast to my arms." The method mentioned in reply to Eloise will bring the desired results; wear gloves to prevent soiling the bed linen.

D. N. A. writes: "How can I reduce a double chin? Also how get rid of crow's feet?" Use a wash lotion prepared by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel. This tightens the skin, tending to disperse wrinkles, as well as flabbiness about the chin or elsewhere.

Eloise says: "My freckles are worse than ever this year, made doubly conspicuous by a pallid complexion. Is there any cure?" Ask your druggist for an ounce of mercolized wax, apply nightly like cold cream, removing in the morning with warm water. As the wax gradually absorbs the lifeless cuticle, not only will the freckles vanish, but the new and younger skin which appears will have a healthy color. Probably you will need to continue treatment a week or more.—Woman's Realm.

Professor Parkhurst is one of the leading authorities of the United States on the cliff dwellers and Indians. The party was in charge of J. A. The students were deeply interested in what they saw, and expressed their gratitude to the managers of the Cliff Dwellings company, who had invited them to make the trip as their guests.

10,000 POST CARDS GIVEN AWAY TODAY

The Chamber of Commerce today will hold the second postcard day of the summer, which will be observed every Thursday until the end of August. Following the great success of Postcard day last Thursday, 10,000 cards will be distributed free in the Chamber of Commerce rooms in the Burns building. The cards to be given today bear a beautiful view of a scene on the Colorado Springs-Canon City highway. The card lays great stress on the good roads in this region and bear this inscription:

"It is worth a trip across the continent to spend a vacation motoring in the Colorado Rockies. You may not realize that there are 50 trips, all over good roads, radiating from Colorado Springs into the mountains and out onto the plains. But there are, and a postal to the auto bureau of the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce will bring you, by return mail, a book giving legs of all of them. Our weather is ideal for the motorist. Colorado sunshine will give you a good healthy sunburn, but you will never be uncomfortable from the heat. Why not spend your vacation this year in America's scenic playground?

URGES PERSONAL LETTERS TO FRIENDS, SUGGESTING THAT THEY VISIT SPRINGS

Urging that local people who are writing to friends in the east urge them to come to Colorado Springs for their annual vacation, Fred C. Matthews, general passenger agent of the Cripple Creek consolidated railroads, says the summer season will be a great success, if the good work of advertising the Pikes Peak region is kept up.

At present thousands of posters and circulars are doing their work in the east, but every personal letter carries with it power in impressing easterners that this is the section to which they should come to escape the heat. Mr. Matthews says that the unusually long season last summer was due to the fact that the east was sweltering in one of the most intense heat waves ever experienced, and the crops were, for the large part, a failure, and farmers came west by the hundreds to escape the heat and grasp the opportunity of having a vacation, while their usually productive fields were idle.

This year, throughout the east, an immense crop will be harvested, and many farmers will not be able to come here. But the harvest soon will be bringing returns to the agriculturists, and they will be seeking pleasure. If they receive letters from friends in this region, they are likely to come late to enjoy the big carnival, or to be here during the early part of September, declares Mr. Matthews. He is convinced that August and September will bring large crowds to Colorado Springs and Manitou, and says the Knights of Columbus convention here, and the G. A. R. reunion in Los Angeles, will bring thousands of tourists to the Pikes Peak region. He thinks the season will prove an unusually late one.

Waits Four Hours for "Con" Man to Get Some Change, and Loses $65

John Kossi of Bloomington, Ill., a tourist, fell a victim to a confidence game yesterday morning in this city. He lost $65 in cash, and reported his loss to the police. Kossi met the stranger at the Santa Fe depot, and warmed by the man's genial manner, according to his story, was induced to let the stranger have the money, taking the grip as security. After waiting outside of the Exchange National bank for nearly four hours, while the confidence man went in "to get some change," Kossi discovered that he had been duped, and that his "friend" had made his exit through another door. The police have a description of the bunco man, and are on the lookout for him.

RICH ORE REPORTED

According to a report from Cripple Creek, a rich strike has been made in the El Paso mine. Some of the ore runs as high as $80,000 a ton, and five sacks were brought in from the mine to the Cripple Creek state bank under guard it is said. One pound of the ore contains about $40 worth of gold. The local office of the El Paso company has not confirmed the report.

RECEPTION TO TEACHERS

The annual reception to the instructors who are in the city to attend the teachers institute, was held in the corridors of the court house last night, with about 150 in attendance. The evening was featured by games, contests and story telling. After light refreshments dancing was in order until 11 o'clock. The reception was in charge of the county school superintendents of Teller, El Paso, Elbert and Douglas counties, and was an informal affair.

Yesterday's session of the institute was not marked by any special features. Mrs. Helen M. Wixson, state superintendent of schools, is expected from Denver today to speak before the institute.

During the summer months mothers of young children should watch for any unnatural looseness of the bowels. When given prompt attention at this time, serious trouble may be avoided. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy can always be depended upon. For sale by all dealers.

DEMOS HOLD PRIMARIES

In preparation for the primaries next Wednesday, the Democratic caucuses was held yesterday. They were quiet throughout, and only three contests developed, in ward 4, precinct 4; ward 5, precinct 2, and in ward 6, precinct 1. A list of delegates to the county assembly was named to go on the ballots at the primaries next Wednesday.

Author of The Deep Purple Makes That His First Cue

[illegible] what [illegible] people are thinking about and get it on the stage before they start to think [illegible] of something else.

When Wilson Mizner, one of the authors of "The Deep Purple," the successful [illegible] breaking attendance [illegible] at the [illegible] was merely an aspiring playwright [illegible] of the most successful of the craft confided to him [illegible] success. Mizner has [illegible] to his breast [illegible] results [illegible] that his merit has [illegible] departed from [illegible] to his [illegible] to be doing dramatists. Mizner [illegible] [illegible] all things [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] New [illegible] newspapers [illegible] [illegible] when he [illegible] humble parts that [illegible] travels [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] happy [illegible] [illegible] he was still [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the conclusion that Civil war plays were not in great demand

In making his second endeavor Mizner determined to set his stage in the Klondike, a region that he knew somewhat more intimately than the battlefields of the war of the rebellion. He turned to a friend for advice

Him said his counselor Klondike, very good opportunities presented to make splendid to do just as soon as the public starts getting excited about Klondike. I've pigeon holed a lot of dramatic data on interesting places, conditions and people myself and I'll turn to them the moment I see indications of a revival of general interest in them. That's why I keep my eyes glued on the current papers and magazines religiously

This [illegible] Mizner says was the burden of the advice Mizner followed it implicitly his first play acted The Only Law was suggested by a national movement to root out certain social evils but unfortunately Mizner's first attempt though it won its author praise for his skillful and truthful character drawing did not attain a great financial success. The next time Mizner saw his friend he sought an explanation

[illegible] the [illegible] resolve on the part of the public to stay away from [illegible] [illegible] asked he

A play of that character was the [illegible] pure simon-pure melodrama [illegible] Its the thing were [illegible] The public is tired of the [illegible] on the stage. It wants [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] thrills [illegible] them without [illegible] strain on their [illegible] [illegible] it white heat [illegible] no time or much polish do what you have [illegible] a real melodramatic sweeps and then hang out the S R O

That in brief was the plan of action Wilson Mizner and Paul Armstrong adopted in preparing The Deep Purple for the stage Mizner who openly boasts that he knows more of the ways of crooks than any [illegible] possessed of a controlling interest in his own liberty brought to this collaboration a familiarity with the substratum of society with which the play deals His partner contributed the dramaturgic experience that had previously been demonstrated in Alias Jimmy Valentine and other plays

How correct Wilson Mizner is in his theory one has but to go to the Burns theater and note the [illegible] houses further proof of the [illegible] of the Mizner theory is not required

SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

How Mrs. Bethune was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sikeston Mo "For seven years I suffered everything I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk I had cramps, backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband's told him about Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do all my own housework, work in the garden and entertain company and enjoy them, and can walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the week. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl, and tell them what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me "—Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

Remember, the remedy which did this was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion and nervous prostration, after all other means have failed. Why don't you try it?

MUCH BUSINESS IS UP BEFORE THE CITY COUNCIL

Several matters of routine business came up before the city council at its regular meeting yesterday The ordinance providing for stone or concrete sidewalks in improvement district No. 1 was passed on first reading an ordinance dealing with excavations in streets and alleys was introduced, the concessions committee of the Shan Kive was granted the use of the streets August 27 and 28 a letter from the Chamber of Commerce urging that the undercrossing on South Nevada avenue under the Short Line and Rio Grande trestles be made more safe was read and placed on file, and the Civic league was requested to alter its design for the municipal flag

The sidewalks in improvement district No 1 may be either of concrete or stone and although the ordinance does not mention it the city officials say that parking may be permitted For concrete sidewalks a five inch base of concrete with a one inch surfacing of cement is required For stone sidewalks a three-inch base of concrete must be used The sidewalks may be of any color but in front of any one place must be all of the same color Commissioner Lawton said yesterday that the wide sidewalks were required in order to reduce the cost of paving by reducing the area to be paved

The ordinance introduced yesterday in regard to excavations in streets and alleys operates to put all such matters under the control of the department of public works and property

In return for the use of the streets August 27 and 28 the concessions committee of the Shan Kive is to put them in good condition afterwards The paving excludes tent shows to a large extent but many sidewalk stands will be put in None of these booths can be erected in front of a business house against the will of the occupants

An ordinance in regard to the undercrossing on South Nevada avenue is already partly drawn It aims to have the avenue widened at the undercrossing to have sidewalks built and to have the trestles reconstructed

The council approved the general design for the municipal flag but desired a few minor changes As soon as these are made the flag probably will be adopted

CIRCUS IS CONGRESS OF TONGUES

Thirty-two Languages Spoken in Dressing Rooms of Big Show

No less than 32 languages are spoken in the dressing room of the Barnum and Bailey circus A waiter must be a linguist to qualify for a position in the cook house Interpreters are necessary to keep the traveling community on a basis of intelligent operation It is a polyglot crowd working far from home

The work of selecting the 400 artists with the show was left entirely to the foreign agents The Wirth family of equestrians and the Siegrist Silbon family of aerialists are from Germany France sent the Georgetty Herculean jugglers Les Deko and Les Jardy families of acrobats and the Bento family of equilibrists In Italy weer secured Katie Sandwina the strongest woman in the world and the Florenz family of gymnasts Victoria Codona is from Spain There is also a company of Jap athletes wrestlers and jiu jitsu experts from the court of the mikado The Davenport riders are from Australia Wilson and his equestrian sedia Rooney's brass band of elephants and the Dertick and Bralini troupe of riders are from England In addition there are artists from Norway Russia Turkey Prussia and Belgium to say nothing of a dozen far eastern countries

Figures usually unattractive become interesting when viewed in connection with this circus For instance if the canvas used in the 28 tents were made into a strip two feet wide it would reach from New York to Philadelphia The train upon which the circus travels is considerable over a mile in length In the cook tent 4,000 meals are cooked and eaten daily Six men are employed to do nothing but keep the wheels of the many vehicles greased Over 50,000 gallons of water are used every day on the grounds

The show travels on an average of 40,000 miles in a single season It has visited every city of size in America Europe and Asia during its 35 years of existence In addition to its many European and Asiatic agencies it has offices in New York City and Chicago, winter quarters in Bridgeport Conn and foreign workshops in Stoke-on-Trent England It employs 1,500 people 1,250 of whom travel directly with the show

When it visits Colorado Springs on Thursday August 1 it will begin the day with the greatest street parade ever seen in this country bar none It is a show of novelty as well as size Those who have been attending circus performances from boyhood to old age will find in Barnum and Bailey's tents no one feature they ever saw before The menagerie is a veritable open book of natural history Here are to be found more than half the elephants in America and the only giraffe ever born in this country

Electric Rock Drill Said to be a Marvel

W A Smith of 619 South Cascade avenue has invented an electric rock drill which is being manufactured by the Hassell Iron Works company of this city, and which it is claimed, will eventually be in universal use all over the United States where hard rock drilling is done Mr Smith claims it will prove the greatest boon to the mining industry that has ever been invented

The new drill in one minute will bore a hole one and one half of an inch in diameter and 12 inches deep in Pikes Peak granite—the hardest known Using a one horse power electric motor, it delivers 650 blows a minute with an 11-pound hammer, under an actual pressure of 80 to 100 pounds. The common air drills in use throughout the country have hammers weighing from eight to 11 pounds, and require apparatus developing from 15 to 20-horsepower and weighing tons to operate them The Smith drill weighs 240 pounds with motor attached, 170 pounds alone and wherever electric power is available can be operated easily and economically The machine is really a cleverly operated pneumatic hammer drill, operated by electricity, and works well under the most trying tests The motor can be removed from the drill in five seconds This feature will be appreciated by miners.

Where electric lines are not available a three-horsepower gasoline engine and two-horsepower generator will run the drill, besides furnishing light for the mine

It is said by Mr Hassell that a plant will be erected in the near future which will be able to turn out hundreds of drills a month

Press Photography Most Speedy

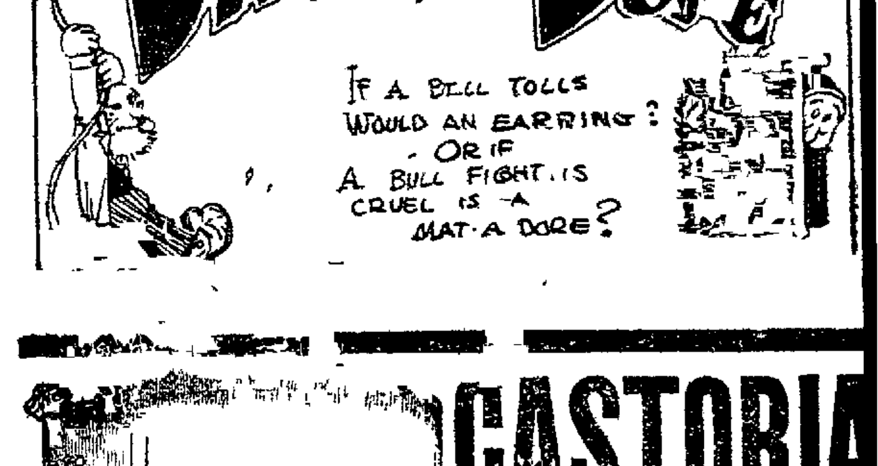

Press photography is a branch of the art calling into play all of the newest developments for speed and accuracy One of the record feats of a press photographer last year was in connection with the Long Run wreck which took place in Kentucky one evening in January Two passenger trains were crushed into each other and the wreckage piled high The photographer was called from a party in his own home about 9 o'clock and by 10 o'clock a special electric car had conveyed him to the scene It was bitter cold and he had the greatest difficulty in setting up his instruments in view of the strong winds He managed to secure an 8x10 negative however and by 12 30 that night he reached his shop and proceeded to develop it with such success that his paper the next morning was able to print a clear page-wide picture of wrecked trains

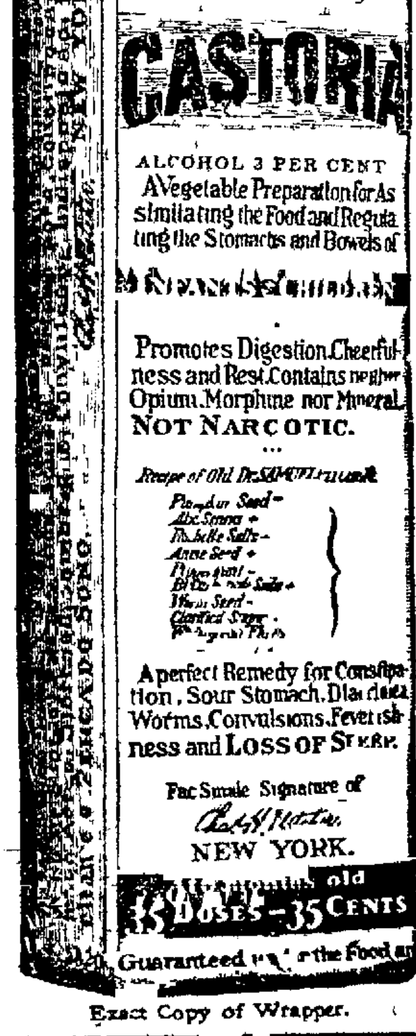

Aerial photography is perhaps latest thing It consists in birds eye views of whole towns With the increase of the use of the flying [illegible] these will no doubt become numerous within the next few years Another means of obtaining a bird's eye view is by means of the tower camera This is placed upon the top of a collapsible metal tower which is raised by means of windlasses A bird's eye view of a large manufacturing plant recently was taken from a camera elevated on a tripod a hundred and fifty feet high This is said to be the highest [illegible] used The camera was set in place by means of pulleys and the exposure was made by an operator standing upon the ground who closed the shutter by means of an electric button

By GEORGE T. PARDY.

CHICAGO, July 24.—If big Al Palzer ever realizes his cherished desire of obtaining a match with Jack Johnson, the chances are that the said contest will take place somewhere outside of the Empire state. None of the Gotham promoters appear anxious to stage a bout between the Iowa giant and the champion, and Billy Gibson of the Garden Athletic club, which operates the Madison Square fistic shows, comes out flatfooted with a statement that Palzer would be too hopelessly outclassed by the negro to figure as a good drawing card.

Many critics agree with Gibson's views in this respect, but it is probable that Billy is more influenced by the fact that the members of the state boxing commission would be certain to frown upon the matching of any white man with the black king of the roost than he is moved by sympathetic consideration for Palzer's health. The last time that the subject of a tussle between Palzer and Johnson in New York was broached the commission autocrats declared that they would refuse permission for Johnson to engage in any such battle within the boundaries of their bailiwick.

Jack was somewhat peeved over the announcement and issued a statement to the effect that if he wanted to box in New York he would do so regardless of what the commission thought about the matter. Nothing came of the wrangle, however, as shortly afterward the Flynn affair was scheduled for Las Vegas, and Johnson made a test of his constitutional rights.

Just why the members of the commission should discriminate against Johnson as opposed to a white pugilist does not seem very clear. They never made a protest when Joe Jeannette or Sam Langford converted various unhappy pale faces into swatting bags for the edification of Gotham club patrons. Jeannette knocked out Al Kubiak in New York twice last year, and Langford disposed of the same gentleman, as well as Jack Fitzgerald, Jim Smith, Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, Tony Ross and Tony Caponi—all via the slumber route. And be it noted that every one of the foregoing sacrifices at the Jeannette-Langford shrines were hopelessly outclassed from start to finish. Surely big, husky Palzer would stand in no more danger of being "slain to make a Gotham holiday" by Mistah Johnson than did the blonde victims who were slammed into oblivion by Joe and Sam?

It is an established axiom of the ring that being a champion has its drawbacks in this country. The so-called "reformers," for instance, pay no attention to mills staged between lesser lights of the squared circle, but the signing of articles for a battle by a champion heavyweight is always the signal for a frantic outburst of protests upon their part. Yet one would hardly expect the members of the New York state commission to assume such an inconsistent attitude. Placed in a position of authority whereby they are supposed to give boxing patrons whatever the latter may desire within the bounds of reason in the form of glove contests, they ought to be broad-minded enough to extend exactly the same courtesies to the heavyweight king as they do to the big battlers of the near-champion brand.

Rain Stops Fast Tennis Contests; Today's Schedule

The rain yesterday afternoon interfered to some extent with the Colorado Springs Golf club tennis tournament and forced the postponement of two matches to today, but the matches played before the rain were fast and interesting. One of the best matches of the afternoon occurred when Kernochan played Fawcett. Fawcett won the first set, 6-4, but Kernochan came back with a rush, winning the next two sets and the match, 6-3, 6-3. Andrews, the state champion, did not play yesterday, but meets Kernochan at 5 o'clock this afternoon. One other feature match in the singles is scheduled for this afternoon, when Knowlton meets Wheeler. Both men have been playing top-notch tennis, and the contest promises to be one of the most interesting of the day. One of the semifinals in the mixed doubles will be played today, when Miss Cohen and Wheeler, who yesterday beat Miss Flemming and Gustin, meet Miss Many and Bissell.

The drawings for the consolation singles were made yesterday, and some of the matches will be played off today. The drawings are: Almirall vs. Seldomridge; Sheffer vs. Gustin; Sprague vs. Williams; Bissell vs. Fawcett. Frank Evans drew a bye.

AD'S DETERMINATION TO FIGHT AGAIN STIRS UP LIGHTWEIGHT ASPIRANTS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—The determination of Champion Ad Wolgast to fight again on Thanksgiving day has stirred great activity in the ranks of the lightweights. Holding himself open for the best proposition that the promoters may have to offer, Wolgast has several likely candidates for championship honors facing and waiting their return. He is holding conferences with Promoter James Coffroth, the result of which he expects will be a contract to fight in San Francisco on November 28.

The refusal of Tom McCarey of Los Angeles to put Willie Ritchie on with Joe Rivers on Labor day has made Ritchie seem about the likeliest opponent for the champion in his next go. Coffroth thinks that Ritchie and Wolgast would draw a record house and is doing what he can to sign them. The winner of the "One Round" Hogan-Tommy McFarland fight next Wednesday night looms as a possibility for the chance at the championship, and if the Attell-Murphy fight on August 3 is a regular fight the victor of the encounter may be considered by Coffroth and Wolgast.

CHAPPLE GETS MILE RECORD

NEW YORK, July 24.—Arthur Chapple of New York, established a 3-mile world's record for motorcycles at the Brighton Beach motordrome tonight, negotiating the distance in 1:59 2-5. The first mile of the trial was made in 39 seconds, lowering the world's record of 39 1-5, established by Chapple last night.

MARATHON POSTPONED ON ACCOUNT OF THE WEATHER

BELLINGHAM, Wash., July 24.—The judges of the Bellingham Mount Baker Marathon, who left yesterday morning for Mount Baker, failed to reach the summit because of a blizzard which is raging around the mountain, and returned tonight. The Mount Baker club postponed the Marathon, which was scheduled for tonight, until a date in August to be fixed later.

Manager Hugh Jennings of the Detroit Tigers Admits That He Likes Boston

BOSTON, Mass., July 24.—Manager Hugh Jennings of the Detroit Tigers made a significant statement here recently, making it plain that he had no unbreakable ties with the Detroit club and that, if he made any change he would prefer being in Boston rather than in any other major league city.

"I am under contract to the Detroit club," said Jennings, "and it would not be fair to that club or to its owners to talk business with any other team while drawing salary from Detroit. That contract, however, will expire on October 15 of this year."

"Will you sign another contract with Detroit?" he was asked.

"That is taking quite a little look into the future," returned Jennings. "In the first place, the Detroit club may think that they can get someone else who would be able to get better results out of the team. At the same time I want to say right here that there is not the slightest friction between President Frank Navin and myself. It is quite true that Mr. Navin has not been thoroughly pleased with the way the Detroit team has been going this season, but I have it from his own lips that he is not dissatisfied with the team's manager.

"Even if I was offered another contract by Detroit—and I have no reason to believe that I shall not be—I would not sign it, nor remain with the club, if I thought that the supporters of the team in Detroit wanted to see someone else besides myself in charge. No man can do his best work if he hasn't his home public behind him. Support by the public is as essential to a baseball manager's success as it is to a politician.

"If I was assured of more money with some other club than I could expect from President Navin and Detroit that would, of course, be a consideration. I have no especial tie that binds me to the Detroits."

Jennings added that he expects to continue in baseball several years yet, either in Detroit or elsewhere, and that there is no city in the country where he would rather be identified with baseball than Boston. At the same time he said that he had had no negotiations with anyone connected with the Boston National team and that at this time, at least, he couldn't be considered a candidate.

EVANS PROVES SKILL BEFORE LOCAL GOLFERS

The exhibition match at the Colorado Springs Golf club yesterday afternoon, between Charles (Chick) Evans of Chicago, Western Golf association champion and W. K. Jewett, Percy Hagerman and J. F. Hubbell, Colorado Springs men, in which Evans was playing the best ball proved to be a very close and interesting match. The play was stopped at the 14th hole, owing to the heavy storm which came up. The match stood all square when they stopped playing.

Evans played remarkably steady golf and at times pulled off some brilliant shots. Undoubtedly, if the match had not been called at the 14th, he would have come very close to breaking the record of the course.

The local players put up some very good golf. Mr. Jewett's two threes at the 4th and 5th, and Hubbell's brilliant four at the 9th and Mr. Hagerman's well-played four at the 14th, where he squared the match, were features of the local men's work.

After the match Mr. Evans expressed himself as being delighted with the course and stated that the local course has undoubtedly the making of one of the finest in the country.

Mr. Evans left last night over the Rock Island for his home in Chicago after spending four days in the city, the guest of friends. While here he enjoyed many pleasure trips to various points of scenic interest and stated before leaving that he is greatly impressed with the beauty of the entire region.

The ladies clock golf tournament, which was also scheduled for yesterday afternoon was called off, due to the rain.

Mrs. H. B. Davis has announced that she will give a prize for a ladies' clock golf tournament to be played Saturday afternoon, July 27, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. The postponed clock golf tournament of yesterday will be played off at the same time.

There will also be an 18-hole medal handicap sweepstake for men Saturday afternoon.

SENSATIONAL MATCHES MARK TENNIS TOURNEY

LAKE FOREST, Ill., July 24.—Sensational matches marked the fourth day's play in the Western Tennis tournament, at the Onwentsia club. Heathby Ford of Chicago defeated C. R. Herd of Passadena, Cal., in a long drawn out match, 9-7, 3-6, 7-5, while W. H. Mace of Princeton, defeated J. J. Armstrong of St. Paul, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

As the result of today's play, most of the matches in the third round of the men's singles and most of those in the second round of the men's doubles were completed.

Women's events were not rushed as much as the men's, but it is expected no difficulty will be experienced in finishing them on schedule time.

California against Princeton is the order for tomorrow, W. H. Mace of Princeton, meeting T. C. Bundy of Los Angeles, while H. H. Braley of Los Angeles will take on C. M. Church of Princeton. This will bring the tourney to the semifinal round, which will be played on Friday, leaving Saturday open for the final and challenge matches.

H. H. Braley of Los Angeles was given a hard contest by J. S. Cushman of New York, but finally won out, 6-4, 6-3.

T. C. Bundy of Los Angeles, had no trouble beating Morris Johnson of Chicago, 6-2, 6-1.

Miss May Sutton and Miss Mary Brown of California had no trouble in winning their first two matches in the women's singles events. Miss Sutton defeated Miss Jessie Gregg of Kalamazoo, Mich., in the first round, 6-0, 6-1, while Miss Brown defeated Mrs. Latimer of Chicago, 6-2, 6-3, in the first round and Miss Evelyn Seavey of Chicago, 6-1, 6-4, in the second.

Miss May Sutton of Los Angeles, defeated Miss Barbara Thompson, Chicago, 6-0, 6-1.

According to Joe Jackson, Nash, the Brown university graduate who is getting a trial with the Naps, will be a fixture in major league baseball. He is playing shortstop like a veteran, covers a lot of ground, has a good throwing arm and, best of all, is hitting the ball.

Louis Drucke is doing pretty good work in the International league, and is quite likely to fight his way back to the Giants. It is understood that McGraw holds an option on his services.

DREAM OF NEW YORKERS THAT COULD NEVER BE REALIZED

A scheme has been proposed from New York looking to a national boxing tournament to decide the championships in all the various classes next winter on a scale never before attempted. This scheme as it is unfolded, according to the preliminary announcement, is so visionary that there is no likelihood of its being carried out.

Just who is behind the scheme is not stated, but it is said that the battles are to be to a finish and that $100,000 in purses will be divided. The question of selecting the most suitable opponents for the present champions, so runs the story, will be put into the hands of a jury of sporting editors.

The champions as they are given out from New York are Johnny Coulon, Kilbane, Ad Wolgast, Mike Gibbons and Jack Johnson.

The $100,000, it is said, will be divided as follows: Bantamweight, $5,000; featherweight, $15,000; lightweight, $20,000; middleweight, $10,000; heavyweight, $50,000.

There are so many flaws in the plan that it can be discarded as absolutely impossible. First of all, as everybody knows, finish fights are not permitted in New York. In fact, only 10-round matches without decisions are allowed, and no promoter would be so insane as to pay that amount of money for no-decision bouts.

Again, it is extremely doubtful if there is any promoter who could gather the champions in the five classes on his own terms and have them fight for his club.

Of the champions named, four of them are entitled to that distinction, but the fifth, Mike Gibbons, certainly is not any more the middleweight champion of the world than half a dozen boxers who might be named.

Lastly, there isn't a champion in the game today who would allow any committee to dictate who was to be his opponent in the ring. Even if such a selection might prove satisfactory, the champion would insist on a division of the purse that should leave practically nothing to the challenger.

The promoters may say that if a champion should refuse to fight he would lose his title by default. Theoretically that might work out beautifully, but as cold facts go, the champion would still be the champion for all the tournament.

No sir, the man who evolved that story doesn't know much about the boxing game or the characteristics of fighters.

It may sound attractive, but it will not stand the acid test.

This is what a baseball critic says about the pitcher of the Chicago Cubs who helped in cutting Marquard's string of nineteen straight victories:

"The career of young Mr. Lavender has been quite spectacular. He started from Montezuma, Ga., worked his way through the Connecticut league, moved on to Providence and was tipped off to Murphy. Murphy then attempted to shift him over to Montreal, but was foiled. Physically he is somewhat below the pitching normal as to brawn and general displacement, but he carries a funnel of smoke and a wicked curve ball, which, hooked on to his spitter, makes him a formidable opponent to grapple with."

The Naps, by the way, were the ones to check the Senators in their second winning streak, which ran 10 games. Seventeen in a row and then 10 in a row explain Washington's position in the pennant race.

AMERICANS BREAK GERMAN RECORDS

BERLIN, July 24.—Several members of the American Olympic team were winners in the games here today. Melvin W. Sheppard of the Irish-American A. C., won the 1,000 meters, establishing a new record of 2 minutes 32 9-10 seconds, which is four and one-tenth seconds better than the German record. Ralph Rose bettered by 15 centimeters (nearly six inches) the record for putting the square stone weighing 23 pounds, although he had never taken part in this event before.

Donald F. Lippincott, University of Pennsylvania, easily defeated the German sprinter, Rau, in the 200 meters dash.

The Americans, with the exception of Rose, left tonight for Buda Pesth.

Y., was declared winner of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' $10,000 stake for 2:24-class trotters in the grand circuit races this afternoon. LEACH CROSS BEATS O'KEEFE

NEW YORK, July 24.—Leach Cross of New York, had much the better of Tommy O'Keefe of Philadelphia, in a fast 10-round bout here tonight. O'Keefe fought gamely but was outclassed.

G. W. Hutson, who ran third in the 5,000-meter race at the Olympic games, is England's four-mile champion.

HERO OF OLYMPIC GAMES IS AN INDIAN.

Jim Thorpe, the full-blooded Indian from the Carlisle (Pa.) Indian Training school, was made the hero of the American team, which gained such an overwhelming victory at the international athletic games at Stockholm, Sweden. He proved himself to be the greatest all-around athlete in the world when he won the decathlon competition, the final track and field event of the great meet. The competition included the 100 meters flat race, running broad jump, putting the weight, running high jump, 400-meter flat race, 110-meter hurdle race, throwing the discus, pole jump, throwing the javelin and a 1,500-meter flat race. Thorpe won with 8,412 points out of a possible 10,000, first place in each of the 10 events counting 1,000 points. His nearest competitor was Wieslander of Sweden, with a score of 7,724. Thorpe also won first place in the pentathlon, another all-around competition, but which does not include as many events.

CRIPPLE CREEK MINES

CRIPPLE CREEK, July 24.—It is stated that the first run through the Gaylord mill at the Dante will be on August 10. The machinery is being installed as fast as possible, but all adjustments should be made by that time. When work of setting the plant in place was started it was expected that the plant would be ready by August 1. The machinery has been installed with the exception of a few minor parts.

Under J. H. White of Colorado City, who is operating the Orpha May mine on Bull hill, there are six sublessees and at this time a fair production is being made, the ore marketed from this shaft being of a milling grade. Since April, White has been working this claim under the scheme of dividing the settlement check with the leaser. White has done a good deal of work in the Logan claim.

A sheriff's deed has been filed with County Clerk and Recorder Barnard by which the properties of the Princess Alice Gold Mining company are conveyed from the trustees who hold the property by virtue of a sheriff's sale, to the Erie Mines company of New York. The property was sold last October by order of the district court and was taken up by the trustees, Elizabeth A. Chard, Jay Conger and Edward H. Letchworth, who held the judgment against the property.

The properties included in the transfer were the Pearl, North Star, Snow Flake, Yreka and Yreka No. 2, the Lafayette, Survey No. 8983; Linus, Survey No. 10165; Hamilah Survey No. 10237; Defender Survey No. 10178; Oilconda, Survey No. 10179; Winzie Tinzie Survey No. 10110; Standard and Athens, Survey No. 10906; Ruby Survey No. 8097; Abe Lincoln, Survey No. 8586 and 45-16 of the Hillside, Survey No. 9049. The claims are all located in the Cripple Creek mining district.

Some of the properties sending out ore by team this week are: W. P. H., Ironclad hill; Jerry Johnson, Ironclad hill; Lee dump, Bull hill; Victor tunnel, Bull hill; Coriolanus, Battle mountain; American Eagles, Bull hill; Pluto-Bison, Bull hill; Raven tunnel, Raven hill; Comanche Plume, Battle mountain; Mable M., Beacon hill; Moose mine, Raven hill; Dead Pine, Battle mountain; Petrel, Squaw mountain, and Modoc, Battle mountain.

NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 24.—The stock market today manifested no decided tendency to get out of the rut into which it fell earlier in the week. Business was the smallest of any full session in some time, and price changes were without significance, although in a downward direction. There was a recurrence of the recent selling pressure against the leaders, but it lacked sufficient force in most cases to carry the movement beyond mere fractions.

The electric stocks and a few others in which public interest has seldom been more negligible were prominent for their activity and strength, but issues of speculative importance were relatively dormant.

Another severe decline in National Biscuit early in the session was unattended by any special news except that the company is meeting with unusual competition. The Texas company also suffered something of a reverse under unofficial denial of any contemplated change in the dividend, and further liquidation in United States Realty was indicated by its reactionary trend.

Local bankers today were considering the financing of $6,000,000 new equipment notes by the Boston & Albany railroad. The notes probably will take the form of a join issue with the New York Central, which leases the Boston & Albany under a guarantee.

Little business was done here for European account.

Bulls were steady and dull, with total sales, par value, amounting to $2,103,000.

United States government bonds were unchanged on call.

WOMAN HORSEWHIPPED AT HANDS OF A MOB

MACON, Ga., July 24.—Lying on a cot in a hospital, her body a mass of bruises and her life endangered, Miss Essie Carter whispered to her attorneys details of the fearful beating she says she suffered at the hands of W. S. Dozier, father of the boy who had become infatuated with her, in her home in Dublin. The father plied the lash, she declares, while two men held her and 15 others with guns in hand stood by.

The youth was locked in the home of a brother while this was going on. The men involved are prominent in this section. W. S. Dozier is clerk of the superior court of Terrell county, and his helpers are said to have included one son and neighbors who are leaders in business and professional life.

Dozier, as the story is told here, went in company with two brothers-in-law and a party 18 in all to the woman's house in automobiles.

"They dragged me out of my house," Miss Carter told her attorneys, "and two men pinioned my hands. Then they removed my gown they had pulled me out of bed and while two men held me so tight I could not move the father gave me an unmerciful flogging with a buggy whip.

"A negro cabman held the light. I fainted and this, I suppose, scared them, for when I came to my senses I had been taken back into the house and they were all gone. Then my sister brought me to Macon for treatment."

Philadelphia is to have a new $4,-000,000 convention hall to cover, with its gardens, 14 acres.

CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, July 24.—End of the black rust scare led to a drop today in the price of wheat. The market closed easy at a net decline of ⅞c to 1⅝c.

Cooler and clear weather in the northwest helped dissipate alarm in regard to the chance of there being a serious spread of rust before wheat became ready to cut. Moreover, experts who had reached points where plague reports had been started sent word that no damage had been done, and that the prospects of injury seemed remote. Instead of impairment, the experts found yields of 20 to 25 bushels an acre in sight, with the harvest only a week to 10 days off.

Disheartening cables formed a stumbling block all day for the wheat bulls. Moreover, export trade had come to a standstill, no bids arriving that could be worked even on today's break. A rally, due to less favorable reports from the Canadian northwest, did not ... of the buying kind. September fluctuated from 92⅞ to 94, with last sales 93, a loss of 1⅛c, compared with the night before.

Hot, dry weather in Kansas and Oklahoma incited active buying of corn during the greater part of the session. September ranged from 65⅝@65½ to 66⅞c, closing easy but ⅛c net higher, at 66¼@⅜c. There was an active shipping call for cash grades. No. 2 yellow was quoted at 73@74c.

In the oats crowd the principal feature was the strength of spot and of July delivery. Upper and lower limits touched for September were 34⅝ and 33⅞c, with the close ¾c off, at 34c.

Despite the fact that provisions remained slow throughout the lighter run of hogs west afforded basis for an upturn. Pork led, advancing 10c to 17½c net.

TWO BIRTHS—Two births were reported from Bethel hospital yesterday. A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Jones of 224 East Monument street, and a son to Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Liese of Wayne, Colo.

EIGHT OPERATIONS—Eight operations were performed at St. Francis hospital yesterday. The most serious was an intestinal one performed on Richard Davison of this city. He was reported as rapidly improving last night.

TAKE SHORT LINE—The I. P. McCann tour party from New York, containing 50 people; the Sanger tour party of 15, and a large number of the Hutchinson tour "B" party took the trip over the Cripple Creek Short Line yesterday.

ANKLE INJURED—The Rev. Father Schlarmann of Belleville, Ill., who has been spending several days at St. Francis hospital, turned his ankle yesterday and severely injured it. An X-ray picture of the ankle will be taken today to determine the extent of the injury.

OPERATION—Reports from Glockner sanatorium last night were to the effect that Miss Florence M. Lee, stenographer in the office of the clerk of the county court, and who was operated on yesterday morning for appendicitis, was improving. It is expected that her recovery will be rapid.

ELKS STILL COMING—A party of Elks, returning from the convention in Portland recently, will arrive in Colorado Springs via Denver and Albuquerque, N. M., tomorrow, to remain here one day. The Elks are returning as a "Masters Tour party." From this city they will go to Illinois and Indiana.

WORK PROGRESSING—E. C. van Diest, who has charge of the surveying for the new pipe line through Broadmoor to the Stratton home site, reports that the work is progressing and will soon be finished. The laying of the pipe probably will follow immediately after the survey is made.

TOUR ON SANTA FE—The Frank J. Royer touring party of Reading, Pa., will arrive from the east over the Santa Fe Friday morning, August 2, and will remain in the city all day, leaving for the west in the evening. The party is composed of 30 wealthy easterners.

IN SAN ANTONIO—Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Doolen, whose marriage took place at the First Presbyterian church in this city May 28, are living at San Antonio, Tex., and not at Childress, as has been erroneously stated. As soon as Mr. Doolen can arrange his business they intend going to Europe, after which they will reside in San Diguito, Mexico.

BIRTH—A daughter was born last night at Glockner sanatorium to Mr. and Mrs. George L. Weisenberger of 1016 Colorado avenue.

FIRST PETITION—Constable Harvey Gillingham is the first to file a petition with the county clerk to have his name on the ballots at the primaries in September. Gillingham, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff, filed his petition early yesterday morning, several hours before the first of the acceptances of the "acid test" designation was recorded.

MAILING POSTERS—The Chamber of Commerce rooms present a busy scene this week, with several men engaged in wrapping and addressing 5,000 carnival posters, which are to be sent to all parts of the country to advertise the carnival the last week in August. The work is only about half completed. The posters are handsome lithographs, designed by a local artist, Frank H. Young.

LEG BROKEN—Marion Robbins, 13-year-old son of R. G. Robbins of this city, fell from his motorcycle in Buena Vista, Tuesday afternoon and fractured his right leg. Young Robbins, accompanied by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Omar Seward, had just completed a record-breaking trip over mountain roads between Colorado Springs and Buena Vista without mishap of any kind. The next day after his arrival there he was riding the machine along on the streets and struck some sand. The machine swerved and threw him off. He was taken to the home of a friend with whom he was visiting and will be there until he recovers.

DEPARTMENT

Johnston, Dentist, Exchange Bank Bldg.

The funeral of William F. Holmes, 514 Jefferson avenue, Colorado City, who died Tuesday, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Boone undertaking rooms. The Rev. G. H. Stantz will officiate. Interment will be in Fairview cemetery.

In ridding Loch Fad of pike that were destroying the trout the Marquis of Bute blasted the whole lake with dynamite. There were over 300 mines, some of which threw up columns of water 50 feet high. When the show was over nearly 10,000 pike were taken up stunned, and it is believed that a great number were killed. Now the stocking will once more proceed.
